Gun salutes, muffled cadences,
prayers of commoners and kings

LAST JOURNEY

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill made his last journey today in a biting wind to the steady boom of gun salutes, the muffled cadences of thousands of marchers and the prayers of his Queen, his countrymen and distinguished statesmen of the world.

Shortly before 10 a.m. the body of the greatest British statesman of the century was lifted gently from the catafalque in Westminster's "Hall of Kings" where it lay in state three days, and was borne in solemn procession to St. Paul's Cathedral.

Queen Elizabeth herself, surrounded by her family, was the chief mourner of the nation as the sad memorial service unfolded in tribute to the indomitable man who led his country to glorious victory in the Second World War. (See also Page 5.)

Never before had a British sovereign paid such tribute to a commoner among her people. Never before, Britain clearly felt, had it owed so much to one man.

Sir Winston, who died Sunday at the age of 90, could have been entombed among the immortals at Westminster Abbey.

He chose instead a simple country grave beside his parents far from the scenes of his glory.

It was to this grave in the Oxfordshire village of Bladon, close to his birthplace, that the statesman's body was to be taken by launch, train and hearse from St. Paul's.

At Bladon, a simple Church of England funeral service was to commit him to the ground.

CLAD IN BLACK

The young Queen, clad in black and wearing pearls, the Jewel of Tears, joined in prayer in St. Paul's with Sir Winston's grieving family, his most distinguished colleagues, and 3,000 dignitaries from 111 nations assembled to do the great man honor.

Among them were four kings, one other queen, a sultan, five other heads of state and 16 prime ministers.

All-Night Vigil

Million Cram Curbs

LONDON (UPI) — They came carrying tea and whisky, camp chairs and umbrellas, books and string bags crammed with sandwiches.

One by one, as the cold east wind swept down from behind floodlit St. Paul's Cathedral, they settled down in doorways or on curbstones, waiting to pay 10 seconds of homage.

By 3 a.m. more than 3,000 persons had taken squatters' rights to the curbs around St. Paul's and were spreading down Ludgate Hill. They faced more than seven hours of waiting before the gun carriage bearing the body of Sir Winston Churchill would rumble past.

8,000 POLICEMEN

By the time the procession passed, officials estimated at least 1,000,000 persons packed the route. Scotland Yard detailed 8,000 policemen to control the crowd.

Most of the waiting mourners were young—too young to remember the Second World War and Churchill's great years of leadership. Why, then, had they come?

Sir Winston was a great man," Elizabeth Whitehead, 20, said, "and I probably owe it to him that I'm alive."

That theme returned again and again. They were repaying

Diplomacy Amid Grief

LONDON (UPI)—Summit meetings began Friday as world leaders assembled for the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

French President Charles

de Gaulle, who arrived Friday, launched high-level diplomatic talks.

Under heavy security, De Gaulle went directly to Westminster Hall to view the catafalque bearing the body of his old wartime comrade, then proceeded to Buckingham Palace where he was received by Queen Elizabeth.

He met with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson later and sources said a meeting of the two in Paris in the next few weeks has been arranged.

It was the first face-to-face encounter of French and British leaders since De Gaulle barred Britain from the European Common Market two years ago to the day.

The meeting was surrounded by protocol considerations.

No. 10 Downing Street said De Gaulle invited Wilson to the residence of the French ambassador.

Paris sources said the meeting was suggested by Wilson.

De Gaulle, as head of state, was precluded by diplomatic protocol from calling on the prime minister at Downing Street.

Wilson scheduled a meeting with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard to be followed by a meeting with State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Quiet Reverence

Toast His Memory In the Local Pubs

BY HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, viewing the crowds at ancient Westminster Hall, said the mourners at Sir Winston Churchill's bier showed a quiet, very deep reverence, so unlike "the violent, intense, shattering grief" displayed at President Kennedy's funeral in Washington more than a year ago.

Pearson told reporters Friday that when he attended the Kennedy funeral he could sense an emotional outburst, almost of anger, that the youthful president had been cut down even before he had a chance to do his work.

But in Churchill's case, there was a feeling here and in Canada of intense sorrow, but more a sense of satisfaction that Churchill had been allowed by destiny to complete his task, and Britons could toast his memory in the local pubs.

After paying his homage at the catafalque, Pearson joined former U.S. president Dwight Eisenhower and other high dignitaries at a reception given by Earl Alexander, former governor-general of Canada.

George Drew, former Canadian high commissioner to Britain, was a guest.

Lord Alexander will announce details Monday of a Commonwealth plan to raise funds from the public and governments to establish a Commonwealth scholarship fund in Churchill's honor.

Following attendance at the St. Paul's Cathedral funeral service for Sir Winston today, Pearson will be a guest of the Queen at a Buckingham Palace luncheon for heads of state.

After the funeral, he will confer with Prime Minister Wilson. Pearson said he did not know what issues Wilson intends to raise, but the Canada-U.S. agreement on duty-free automobile trade at the manufacturers' level may come up, since Britain has been worried about the impact of this agreement on Britain's vital automobile exports.

Buddhists Warn Off U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang was reported to have told U.S. political officers Friday he wants Washington to keep hands off future Buddhist political campaigns in South Viet Nam.

Quang's eight-day hunger strike, with four other Saigon monks, built up pressure that led to the military ouster Wednesday of Tran Van Huong, the American-backed premier.

American officials said they feel that, since the Buddhists now have had a major role in bringing down three governments, they are likely to try for more.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor called on Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh for their first conference since the South Vietnamese strongman threw out Huong and seized power again.

Khanh also had a talk with political leaders of central South Viet Nam, a stronghold of Buddhist power marked by continuing anti-American agitation.

His new acting premier, Harvard-educated Nguyen Xuan Oanh, ordered release of all persons arrested during the last week of demonstrations and riots except those suspected of being Communist Viet Cong agents.

Saigon authorities, heeding this order, released 79 Buddhist monks, 85 nuns, 132 students and 153 other persons.

But a Buddhist spokesman in

Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, said his group is still not satisfied. He said it demands the expulsion of Taylor, punishment of Huong for alleged activity against Buddhism and installation of Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi as premier.

The military commander in the Hue area, Thi never used his troops against rioters such as the mob which sacked the U.S. Information Service Library in that city and burned hundreds of its books.

Canada, U.S. Just 'Realistic'

No Wheat Price War But Slashes Go Right On

From CP, AP, UPI

There's no wheat price war between Canada and United States—at least both say there isn't.

But meanwhile both continued to slash the price—to meet reductions by the other.

A trade source in Ottawa, while denying Canada has entered an actual price war with the United States, said international pricecutting, a record world wheat crop and increasing competition forced Canada to adopt a more realistic price level.

And in Washington it was announced the United States cut its export price of hard spring wheat another 13 cents Friday to meet a reduction by Canada.

In Winnipeg, the Canadian wheat board slashed the bulk of its export wheat prices Friday in what was said might be the last of a sudden series of reductions.

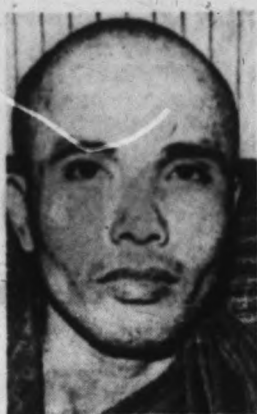

The U.S. cut made a total reduction of 18 cents in hard spring wheat since Monday, when price cutting began to sweep through world markets reflecting a desire to unload heavy supplies.

A highly placed official of the Crown marketing agency in Winnipeg said as far as can be pre-

Lawyer Made Bids For Three Criminals

MONTREAL (CP)—Lawyer MP Guy Rouleau testified before the Dorion inquiry Friday that he made representations to federal authorities on behalf of three criminals, one a known member of the Mafia.

The 12-year Liberal MP for Montreal-Dorion, who resigned last Nov. 24 as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, identified the three as Bob Tremblay, serving 20 years for attempted murder in a Vancouver narcotics case; Joseph (Joe Bananas) Bonanno, a Mafia boss expelled from Canada July 20; and Lucien Rivard, wanted in the U.S. as a kingpin in a Mafia-run dope-smuggling conspiracy.

Mr. Rouleau, 41, said he made representations on behalf of Tremblay after seeing Rivard, who had impressed him as a good, well-spoken businessman with a "nice personality."

He had never suspected Rivard was an underworld character. Mr. Rouleau said he asked the National Parole Board July 17 about parole for Tremblay, 43. This was about a month after Rivard's arrest here June 19. He said he didn't know about Rivard's arrest then.

MADE REPRESENTATIONS

He said he had made representations on Tremblay's behalf as early as October, 1961, at the request of Gaston Clermont, president of Gaspé Asphalt Limited and known to him through their political activity for the Liberals.

The Dorion inquiry, headed by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec Superior Court, is examining the allegations of Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne that he was offered a $20,000 bribe and subjected to political pressure to agree to release of Rivard on bail.

In another courtroom Friday, Rivard's attempt to win release on a writ of habeas corpus was rejected by Mr. Justice Francis Caron. His counsel, Raymond Daoust, said he will appeal.

Mr. Lamontagne appeared for the United States government which is seeking Rivard's extradition.

FEBRUARY CHARGE

As the hearing opened Friday, Chief Justice Dorion announced that he is sending to Quebec Attorney-General Claude Wagner parts of the testimony by murder suspect Robert Gignac, 35, "pleaded" to arrange the meeting for his old McGill University friend Daoust.

Jules Deschenes, federal government counsel at the inquiry, said he will recall Mr. Daoust, in the Sept. 17 gangland slaying of a nightclub doorman.

The inquiry adjourned to Tuesday, Feb. 9, when it will reconvene in Ottawa. There were indications many previous witnesses will be recalled and that new witnesses will be summoned.

Mr. Rouleau testified he arranged a July 15 meeting for

Rouleau

Mr. Daoust, also counsel for Bonanno, with Raymond Denis, then executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, about the Bonanno case.

The meeting was held in Mr. Rouleau's House of Commons office in his presence, the MP said. Mr. Daoust had requested it in a July 9 letter which Mr. Rouleau filed with the commission.

The commission has been seeking this letter since Dec. 23 because Denis has said that after being shown the letter by Mr. Rouleau he summoned Mr. Lamontagne to Ottawa July 14 to give him up-to-date information on the Bonanno case for an interview next day with Mr. Daoust.

BRIBE OFFER DENIED

Mr. Lamontagne, acting for the Canadian government in the Bonanno affair and for the U.S. in the Rivard case, has testified Denis offered him a $20,000 bribe to agree to Rivard's release on bail at their July 14 meeting. Denis has denied making any bribe offer.

Mr. Rouleau testified he tried to arrange an interview between Mr. Daoust and Mr. Tremblay but the minister told him to see Denis because it was his policy not to interview lawyers in extradition cases.

ROULEAU WAS PLEADED

Mr. Rouleau, an MP since 1953 and president of the National Young Liberal Federation 1951-54, said he had been "pleaded" to arrange the meeting for his old McGill University friend Daoust.

Jules Deschenes, federal government counsel at the inquiry, said he will recall Mr. Daoust, in the Sept. 17 gangland slaying of a nightclub doorman.

The inquiry adjourned to Tuesday, Feb. 9, when it will reconvene in Ottawa. There were indications many previous witnesses will be recalled and that new witnesses will be summoned.

Mr. Rouleau testified he arranged a July 15 meeting for ting Tremblay paroled or, failing that, transferred to St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary in suburban Montreal.

Tremblay, was moved from the penitentiary at New Westminster, B.C., to St. Vincent de Paul June 29 on a transfer order issued June 16.

ASKED FOR RELEASE

Mr. Rouleau said Rivard asked him to find out from the parole board whether his friend Tremblay could be released and if not paroled, transferred. The conversation had lasted about five minutes and Rivard had not met any cabinet ministers.

Mr. Rouleau said he wrote parole board secretary Benoit Godbout July 17 saying he was renewing his representations of the previous year on Tremblay's behalf and Rivard was ready to offer Tremblay work.

WIFE WEeping

Mr. Rouleau said he had next heard of Rivard sometime in August when his brother, Raymond, told him Mrs. Rivard had come to him weeping to see whether Guy could do something useful for her husband. His brother had said Rivard was a "big businessman" and it was "not in his (Rivard's) interests to leave the province of Quebec."

Mr. Rouleau said he went to see Guy Lord, former special assistant to Justice Minister Favreau, shortly after. Lord had called Mr. Lamontagne at Mr. Rouleau's suggestion and then told him that the case concerned the U.S. government.

He then had gone to Andre Letendre, executive assistant to Mr. Favreau, but before Letendre could report back to him he had decided "as things seemed to be lagging," to call Mr. Lamontagne personally.

He said this call took place Aug. 11, the day Mr. Lamontagne has testified he went to the RCMP with allegations of bribery and political pressure in the Rivard case.

He had asked if Mr. Lamontagne was happy with the cases he was getting as federal narcotics prosecutor. He then had asked whether bail could be arranged for Rivard.

Mr. Lamontagne had said he was annoyed by representations he had received in the Rivard case.

With Bowed Heads

TODAY one of history's great men is laid to rest and the world mourns. Kings and commoners, warriors and peacemakers, the humble and the mighty stand all this hour with bowed heads and sorrowed hearts.

No man in his lifetime in this century so caught the imagination of those who cherish freedom; so breathed life into withering ideals and dying purpose, or so inspired a shattered world with his words and deeds.

For a moment the world has darkened with his departure from among us. But for men who remember him this will also pass.

Let those who revere his memory take heart from these words he spoke when, once before despair shrouded the world and the dawn seemed too far away:

"Good night, then; sleep to gather strength for the morning, for the morning will come. Brightly will it shine on the brave and true . . . and gloriously upon the tombs of heroes."

A Real Problem

A FEW MONTHS ago the Food and Agriculture Organization placed before the United Nations a report revealing that the world's food production is no longer keeping up with its population.

According to the FAO, the world's population increased by two per cent in 1962, but the increase in food products in the same period fell well below this growth. "For five years now," it stated, "there has been no increase in world agricultural production per capita."

This week UN Secretary-General U Thant announced that he has now received a report from a special committee which predicts that the world's population will double within the next 35 years.

In what must be the most masterly understatement ever made by a man in his position, the secretary-general said that the future of the world depends to a large extent on the solution found to the problems of this population explosion.

It might have been more realistic if the UN leader had said that the world's future depends wholly on finding a solution to these problems—for they are problems which touch upon every living man, woman and child of this day and of all future days.

The startling fact that the world under its present systems of food production is no longer able to feed all its inhabitants seems largely to have been ignored by the governments of most nations. Certainly there has been no evidence of its recognition either in this country or other major agricultural countries.

Likewise there has been apparently little thought given to the proven fact that even now the world's population is growing at the substantial rate of 60,000,000 or more souls a year—a rate which will be vastly accelerated in the near future. Unsubstantiated reports indicate that Communist China's population alone is presently increasing in excess of 20,000,000 each year.

To exist these people must not only eat, but must have living room. Food alone, though necessary for life itself, will not be enough.

Where are the additional 3,000,000,000 people to be born within the next three decades to go?

As the greatest growth will take place in South and East Asia, it is reasonable to suppose that they will first spread and populate all available space in that area and then overlap into Africa, whose own population will also have undergone a rapid increase.

But soon even these territories—so much of them arid and desert lands—will be unable to contain these new millions and eyes will be cast to the last remaining great open spaces on the earth—to the north to Russia, Scandinavia and Europe; to the south to Australia, and to the west to North America.

To people who need food and room to live, Canada at that time if not even now, will be an inviting goal. Here then, if Canada must have a problem, is a real one for her to ponder.

Non-Partisan Job

THE VOTERS should feel indebted to Mr. Waldo Skillings for a good illustration of the art—or perhaps more accurately, the political science—of gerrymandering. The Victoria M.L.A. has suggested in the legislature that because Saanich is growing rapidly and could stand to have a second member, and because the small Oak Bay riding was carved out of the Victoria electoral district originally as a "pocket seat," Oak Bay should now become part of the Saanich provincial constituency.

How much this would be to the liking of the Social Credit party and therefore Mr. Skillings is instantly appreciated when the voting pattern in the last election is recalled. Oak Bay, by an ample margin, elected a Liberal, Mr. Alan Macfarlane. Saanich, by an overwhelming majority, elected a Social Creditor, Mr. John Tisdale. Had the two ridings been one, the total Social Credit vote would have been about 14,250, and the Liberal around 7,340. Is there any doubt that, in this event, there would be one Liberal less and one Socred more now sitting in the House?

With equal logic, it might be suggested that the Oak Bay riding should be expanded closer to average population size for the province, taking in the Cadboro Bay, Ten Mile Point and Gordon Head areas of Saanich, which are not dissimilar in character. One can hardly doubt that this would be the preference of the Liberal party, if it were in position to decide.

Both instances show the need for the job of redrawing constituency boundaries to be done—when it is done—in the way that it is being carried out on the federal scene: by a commission entirely divorced from politics, which cannot be accused or suspected of partisan interest.

He Summed Up Britain

'We Shall Not Forget Him'

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

HIS death had been long expected. And when it came, it was gentle and discreet. He was prodigiously old. We had not seen or heard him in many months. He had lived a great roaring life and somehow shared it with his country.

He had written great books and had relished adventures that others knew only in fantasy. He had wielded unimaginable power. He was a man who could weep at a school song or bow before his sovereign with the awe of a courtier or walk in procession to the Garter Chapel muffled in a great coat, buried under a preposterous Tudor hat, looking like a giant blue mushroom.

He could express his displeasure at a modern portrait presented by Parliament and be applauded for unbending prejudice. He could be tyrannical or petulant, he could be patently wrong, he could be monstrously unfair to an opponent, he could sail through life with more sails out than any ship was made to carry, and we relished it all. He was left free of that facile, jealous contempt which most men feel towards politicians.

He is mourned in the usual way. He was no father figure. He was as we would like the world to see us. We enjoyed him vastly. We were glad to have lived to see him. We shall not forget him.

Those who are middle-aged or more will remember him, almost as if they knew him. That is the strange thing about him. The innumerable bar-room bores putting on their Churchill voices to tell some apocryphal story are only adding their incoherent praise to one of those rare legends that are also facts.

Above all, he will be remembered as he was in war, and when the war is recalled with all its centre it is somehow less horrible and more of an adventure. This is essential, because in the war he did something remarkable to Britain and, for once, Britain has recognized and remembered the achievement.

He was not really a national figure before the war. He was already an elder statesman. He had an aura of failure about him—though it must be said that he did not recognize this himself. He was a little suspect, because he was forever issuing terrible warnings that seemed unnecessary and wrong-headed, because he was a man of war who called out the troops too easily at Archangel, in Sidney Street. He was admittedly brilliant and amusing. But we left our government to more solid men, to Baldwins and Chamberlains. They were the responsible twentieth-century figures.

And when war did come, the solid men were at a loss. The madness and the vulgarity of Hitler seemed unreal rather than menacing. There were expeditions and defeats and men died or became prisoners, but Britain did not really feel like a nation at war. We were amateurs at a distasteful game. We were dutiful rather than wholehearted. And then the real though undeclared prospect of defeat toppled the solid men and we had this old and slightly suspect adventurer to lead us. And we were reassured and confident from the start.

The new premier came at the worst possible moment and he made no bones about what lay ahead. He seemed positively to relish the prospect. He, and we, perked up at the possibility of disaster. He treated the enemy with the rollicking contempt of an old landowner for an industrialist playing the squire. He was deliberately rude. He carefully mispronounced their names and titles.

He brought a relish for old wars to the new. He made what we were doing seem natural and inevitable. He convinced us that we could do it and do it greatly. He called up the old Adam in us and gave us back the power to be aggressive.

It was partly his eloquence, though he was not truly an eloquent man but an unsurpassed master of speeches. You could with the joke or the enigma coming; he would rattle and fumble for it, and suddenly blurt it aloft as if he had dug it out of a deep packing of cotton wool. And he did it with an actor's timing.

The language he used was inflated and august, and it served to dignify the messy things we were doing. He snarled and ranted, and the whole country crowded in to listen to what he said, because this was how we were beginning to feel—exasperated, defiant and prickly proud.

He boasted for us, but not outrageously. He talked like a great captain whose only trade was war and found it a good one. He would "strangle the U-boats" and "wage great battles." And somehow he brought the past in as an ally. It could be said that somehow he brought out the best in war.

Or he would come down to look at his troops, and stump, scowling, along the ranks. He would wear a preposterous billycock hat and hold a cigar and brandish a stick and suddenly relish and grin wickedly and make a gesture towards victory with his fingers that meant something else to a soldier. The whole act was so confident and natural and superb that the troops grinned back from the ranks and cheered and forgot for a little to complain. They went back to their tents or billets with the vague feeling that they came of great stock.

Or, after a bad night of bombing in London, he would pick his way down a ruined street, crunching the glass underfoot, looking now angry, now almost indecently cheerful. And exhausted men and women, picking over the ruins of their homes, would straighten up with a broken toy or a spoiled curtain in their filthy hands and shout out, not a demand for protection or aid, but a reassurance to him.

Or he would sneak off to watch the war, with an air of conscious delinquency, and be seen with his exasperated generals by the side of the road munching a sandwich with a flask in his hand. Or he would order a gun to be fired towards the enemy or insist on seeing the Rhine. It was all very reprehensible and it is not a fashionable attitude today. But, at the time, it served marvelously to increase the sum of national courage.

He made war seem more noble and less squalid. He gave a "Malbrook s'en va-en-guerre" air to the business. And because it enlivened him, it enlivened us too. He gave it a style, with the gift of a great sword to a martyred city and a medal to a suffering island. And when vile things had to be done, like telling Stalin that there would be no second front that year, he went and did them himself.

He was not, of course, a one-man band. He did not win the war single-handed. Others did the dying and the crawling with fear. He was surrounded by men who had to work impossibly hard and none of them survived were sycophants. And yet he utterly commanded the stage. For a few years he summed up Britain and gave her a confidence and was himself the more than life-sized image of Britain. That was his achievement.

When it was all over, Britain went back to her solid men. There was sadness in the rejection by his own people, but it was also right and proper. But his gusto and style survived this too.

The retirement and old age of the great and the powerful can be a pathetic spectacle. Lloyd George frittered away his last long years in bitterness and crankiness. Ramsay MacDonald turned into a sad ghost of a man. The list could be a long one. But Churchill, as he came closer to the inevitable end, still seemed to enjoy the last drops at the bottom of the glass that others had found so bitter. He possessed a curious quality of inner freedom about him.

In large part, this was due to his origins. He was born, quite simply, into a highly privileged aristocracy. Such people are accorded special liberty. So are those at the bottom of the pyramid. For both classes pretence is not necessary. They are the truly liberated. And between Churchill and the least privileged of the British there was an instinctive understanding, even when they chose not to vote for him. The class adjectives and insults just would not stick to him. His American background may, too, have liberated him from the English conventions.

This special freedom showed in his retirement. His friends were not fellow-members of the class that takes power as a birthright, but men like the Canadian Lord Beaverbrook, and the American banker Bernard Baruch and the Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis. All of this was of a piece with his heroic reputation as a deep and discriminating drinker. Other politicians would have been at pains to play down such a reputation; he seemed to enjoy it.

He relished the solid, rather vulgar luxury of unfashionable watering places in the sun. He never courted the press. He kept a few racehorses for a time and did well with them. He maintained an ironclad privacy. He was sentimental. He loved great occasions. He expected to dominate a conversation. He was untouchable by scandal. He bore no rancor against his enemies, but hastened to help them once they were safely down. He was the simplest sort of patriot.

He did as he damn well pleased and what happened to please him was work in a dozen different forms. And when he wanted to relax, he merely changed the nature of his work.

A time will come when he will suffer a reappraisal. His errors will be noted and explained. Smaller men will cut him down to their size. But for once there will be no pleasure and little profit in the debunking. His service to his country has received an international acclaim. And because of what he was in the war and because his life was a triumph of life itself, his place is assured. He really was a great man.

Churchill

Historic Symbol

By A. L. ROWSE

A. L. Rowse, noted historian, is the author of a two-volume biography of the Churchill family. In the following article he gives his views on Sir Winston Churchill.

VERY great historic figures have a way of presenting themselves at the crossroads of history, at decisive junctions in the fates of peoples. We have only to think of Alexander the Great or Julius Caesar, George Washington or Abraham Lincoln. Almost always there has been something special in their make-up or their heritage that has fitted them to take their historic opportunity.

Both these conditions are present in the career of Sir Winston Churchill to a striking degree.

Though he had been upon the public stage for nearly half a century before 1940, in that year he emerged not only as the decisive man of action but as an historic symbol in the fate of the English people. It is possible that Britain might have been borne down then and though it is difficult to conceive of the ultimate subjugation of the English-speaking peoples, there might have followed a vast disarray—worse than that, a splitting-up and splintering of what is, after all, the most hopeful federation of peoples in the world, the most promising and beneficent form of society.

At the same time, by birth and parentage, by his very nature, his inheritance from both sides, Churchill was uniquely fitted to express the deepest impulses, as well as some of the endearing foibles, of both main branches of the English stocks.

We can all recognize the two dominant strains, British and American. Though there are other elements too, quite a strong Scottish infusion as well as a French one coming from way back.

On the British side I should single out the sheer bulldog pertinacity and persistence; there is also a rarer quality than physical courage, shining through that—is there is moral courage, an aristocratic gift of political indomitability, the instinctive thinking of the safety of the state, no matter what anybody says or however unpopular a course he may have to hold.

On the American side I place the zest and high spirits, the indefatigable good nature, the optimism and sheer boyishness which have radiated fun and the enjoyment of life in the gloomiest of places and at the worst of times.

What fun it is to be alive and kicking, is one message this old man with the heart of a boy had for the world. No wonder Franklin Roosevelt wrote to him in the 40s:

"What fun it is to be alive in the same decade with you."

And this takes us to the heart of what this Anglo-American symbol, a very human personality, has to say to the world—a world that has been ravaged by power-maniacs afflicted by persecution-mania, spy-mania, every sort of personal and political mania—that there must be the free expression of the normal and healthy human spirit.

There never was a man of genius more normal and healthy, more extrovert and friendly to other human beings, more free from suspicion or any kind of meanness, more humane and magnanimous, politically as well as personally.

One passion that burns in all Churchill's speeches, and that is of the essence of the man and his belief, is his loathing of tyranny. When he is writing history one can see again and again his detestation of tyrants.

The word that comes to his mind for them is "dastardly." And it is all of a piece with his attitude to life; for these people inflict cruelty, they inculcate fear, they perpetuate a contraction of the human spirit, they deprive men of air to breathe.

Churchill—so like the stock he comes from on both sides—is instinctively in favor of expansiveness of the spirit, riding the world of fear and suspicion, let alone cruelty and torture, all in favor of the honest enjoyment of life for everybody. Everybody knows this to be true, not only his innumerable friends who can bear witness to his generous good nature, his inability to bear malice; those of us who have witnessed his fondness for animals know the tenderness and kindness in that capacious heart.

But the point is not a merely personal one. It is that, in all this, Churchill perfectly mirrors the way of life of the English-speaking peoples, British, American, wherever the language is spoken and our instinctive choices prevail.

And who can doubt, if the question is but allowed to present itself above the surface, which is the better choice for the world, or which choice any people would opt for if they were only free to do so?

To express that, not only in their way of life but in their political institutions, is the essential contribution of the English-speaking peoples to the world. Churchill has expressed that in action as a statesman, while as an historian he has shown in his history of the English-Speaking Peoples how it has come about.

In the preface to his first volume he declares his purpose in writing it to be "the hope that contemplation of the trials and tribulations of our forefathers may not only fortify the English-speaking people of today, but also play some small part in uniting the whole world."

It is certainly in this experience of freedom, the insistence on it in all its manifold forms, that we have something of the utmost value to contribute.

Washington Calling

Timely Reminder

By MARQUIS CHILDS
from London

THIS capital has been preparing for a great pageant in memory of the greatness of an era that already seems part of the remote past.

Kings and queens, heads of state, heads of government, princes and potentates, have been arriving. As Victoria's death marked the end of an age—Britain's long ascendancy, the time of the empire on which the sun never sets—so does Churchill's passing signal the close of a chapter that the British people treasure in another way. This was the hero of their finest hour, the symbol and the sign that valor and steadfastness and sacrifice and nobility could be called forth as of old.

This interlude of mourning may almost be welcome in that it calls up the great past at a moment when Britain's fortunes are at a low ebb. The Labour government of Harold Wilson holds precarious authority, a three-vote margin in the House of Commons. While an election may come soon, the Conservatives have no desire to return to office in light of the difficulties plaguing the British economy.

The British pound, once the token of stability and financial authority, suffered a bad sinking spell last year and was rescued by the International Monetary Fund with a draft on the hard-currency countries. Prices are rising as British goods have been forced out of competitive markets. Labor spokesmen are compelled to appeal to the rank and file for restraint on wages and a postponement of new welfare measures. No one quite knows what the direction is.

In this sad dilemma the image of the clear-headed man with the cigar clamped in one corner of his bulldog mouth is a welcome reminder of what men can do when they have to.

No one talks about anything else and almost everyone has his or her anecdote. People treasure the moments they saw him, a glimpse of him passing in a car or standing on the outskirts of a crowd and hearing that stirring voice raise its challenge like a battle call. Through the long darkness of the blitz that voice on the wireless was a sustaining force for millions of Britons.

The memory is erased of their ingratitude at the war's end. In the election that came as he sat down at Potsdam in 1945 with Stalin and Truman to try to agree on a peace he was turned out of office. It was a severe blow to his pride and to his belief that he had a hold on the affection of his people.

But the British had been asked to endure too much. Nearly six years of war, the blitz, the interminable blackout, the heavy losses on land and sea, the decimation of overseas investments, rationing, the drab face of London—the prime minister was the victim of all the discontents. His seat at the conference table and his hopes were abruptly denied to him.

He came back in 1951 after a campaign in which he had been first to paint the horrors of atomic war and to call for "a parley at the summit." In the two years that followed he took the lead in seeking a way out of the atomic trap.

As so often in the past, he was ahead of his time. History was forever catching up with the great figure who now belongs to the small company of immortals.

Beside Queen

By CAROL KENNEDY
LONDON (CP) — As world leaders gathered today under the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral to pay final homage to Sir Winston Churchill, the wife of the great warrior-statesman occupied a place of honor to the right of the Queen.

Wellington 112 years ago—has a monarch ever thus honored one of her subjects.

The Queen sat in an ornately carved and gilded chair facing the altar steps and the flag-shrouded coffin on its black and silver catafalque. Lady Churchill, 79, was seated with her son Randolph and two surviving daughters on the south side of the bier.

Next to the Queen was Prince Philip, the Queen Mother, Prince Charles, Princess Margaret and the Earl of Snowdon and other members of the royal family.

PEARSON, WIFE
Directly behind them was a row of foreign representatives and Commonwealth leaders, including Prime Minister Pearson and his wife.

Facing the mourning family across the length of the coffin were six European heads of state—five reigning monarchs and President de Gaulle of France. King Frederick of Denmark sat directly opposite Lady Churchill.

PALLBEARERS
Also facing each other across the bier were two rows of pallbearers, including Earl Alexander of Tunis, former governor-general of Canada; Australia's Prime Minister Menzies, three former British prime ministers and several of Churchill's wartime chiefs of staff.

Canadian - born Dr. Conrad Swan, who as most recently appointed herald in the College of Arms played a leading role in the ceremony.

DUNCAN MAN
Swan, 40, born in Duncan, B.C., bears the title Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms. He was one of two pursuivants leading the 17-man procession from the College of Arms that received the body of Sir Winston from its gun carriage at the steps of St. Paul's, escorted it in a double line into the cathedral and led the cortege out again after the 30-minute funeral service.

MOURNING SASH
Swan was resplendent in a red, blue and gold-embroidered damask tabard over black breeches, stockings and silver-buckled shoes. Over his right shoulder he wore a black crepe mourning sash, tied in a bow on the left hip.

He said the rehearsals had been tiring, with their slow, measured, 35 paces to the minute tread.

"There hasn't been a state funeral like this since Wellington, so naturally everyone is particularly intent on getting everything just right."

Jazz Mass Plays Encore

A jazz mass including the music of the Dambusters' March will be presented at All Saints' Anglican Church in Shawnigan Lake at 11:15 a.m. Sunday.

The "choir" will consist of 20 teenagers from the district's two local schools and soloist will be the vicar, Rev. Eric Scott.

Mr. Scott's wife, Frances, will accompany the mass at the organ.

The jazz mass was written by East London vicar Geoffrey Beaumont in an effort to attract more young people to church.

This is the second presentation at the tiny Shawnigan Lake church. When presented last November between 70 and 80 people crammed into the church—double the normal congregation.

Tea, Whisky Sustain Million Mourners

A debt contracted before they were born.

"We are too young to remember Sir Winston well," nurse Celia Harrild said, "but he did a lot for us."

Others remembered well. "I lived through two world wars," Mrs. Margaret George said simply.

NEVER FORGET
"I can never forget what he did in the war," said Mrs. Lyall Ramsey from Sydney, Australia, who waited four days and four nights outside Sir Winston's home last week as he lay dying.

The first knots of waiters began forming before midnight at St. Paul's, at Trafalgar Square and at Westminster Hall—three landmarks along the funeral procession route.

FILL UP CURBS
Then, as these prime positions filled up, they spread out, grabbing the nearest curbstone.

Some sat on folding chairs.

Others spread out plastic sheets or newspapers and hunched down for the long wait. Three girls spread out sleeping bags and curled up in the doorway of a vacant shop, munching on oranges and apples carried in a sack.

WINDOWS BOARDED
Newspaper sellers and tea vendors did a booming business. All night restaurants, like many other shops along the route, boarded up their windows against the crush of the crowd, but chalked "business as usual" signs on the board. Many stores took on special damage insurance.

The mourners were well muffled against the freezing temperatures in overcoats.

Best Vegetables Topic Tuesday
A panel discussion on the best kinds of vegetables for show and home consumption will highlight the monthly meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 941 Pandora.

Panelists will be Harry Parker, David Barton and Kenneth Hincks.

In Indonesia
The newspaper says the only conclusion to be drawn is that Canada, Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Malaysia are making final arrangements for an all-out attack on Indonesia.

It says that to begin with Indonesia should withdraw its students studying in Canada.

CONFRONT POLICY
Indonesia has declared a policy of confrontation against the Malaysian federation which links the former British colonies of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah (North Borneo).

Indonesian President Sukarno has sworn to crush it.

Referring to the Canadian plane decision, the Herald says:

"This should be a lesson to every Indonesian that a Canadian is not a Canadian but that a Canadian is British."

"After all, Canadians do not even have an independence day," the paper added.

Observers said Friday that as far as they could recall this is the first editorial attack by an Indonesian newspaper against Canada over the Malaysia dispute.

Over the last few months the United States, Australia and New Zealand have one by one

Police Foil Plotters Of Malaysian Revolt

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Deconstruction of an Indonesian-inspired plot to promote armed revolution in Malaysia was announced by federal police Friday.

Three Malaysian political leaders, who oppose Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman's policies, were charged with conspiring to slip into Indonesia and set up a rebel government, in-exile as part of President Sukarno's campaign to crush the British-backed anti-Communist Federation of Malaysia.

ROUNDUP COMPLETE
All three were arrested late Thursday, completing a roundup launched with four arrests Tuesday. The Internal Security Act permits indefinite detention without trial.

Police identified the accused plotters as Dr. Burhanuddin al-Helmi, president of the Pan Malaysian Islamic party; Abdul Aziz bin Ishak, president of the National Convention party; and Ishak bin Haji Mohammed, former chairman of the Socialist Front.

Some renegades have been captured with Indonesia guerrillas during the half-dozen raids launched against the Malaysian mainland from Indonesia.

The arrests are expected to stir protests from opposition groups. But these would have little if any effect on Rahman's alliance government. It controls four-fifths of the 159-seat house of representatives.

Voodoo Skid Hurts Officer

COMOX—Ft. Lt. John Kuzyk, 33, public relations officer at RCAF Station Comox until last fall, was reported resting comfortably Friday in the station hospital following a landing accident Thursday afternoon.

He suffered back injuries when a CF-101 Voodoo plane of 409 Nighthawk interceptor squadron skidded nearly a mile after its undercarriage gave way on landing.

RADIO-NAVIGATOR
Ft. Lt. Kuzyk, who returned to flying duties last fall after three years as information officer, was acting as radio-navigator. Pilot Ft. Lt. Arthur Pearson was not hurt.

It was the first accident of this nature at Comox since the introduction of the Voodoos in 1962. An investigation will be held to determine the cause of the accident and the damage, which was mostly confined to the undercarriage.

Martin Denies Reports

'Canada Not Training Indonesian Cadets'

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said Friday that Canada has no military training agreement with Indonesia and there are no Indonesian cadets in training in this country.

He said in a statement: "I have seen press reports indicating there are Indonesian cadets in this country under some Canadian military training program. These reports are entirely without foundation.

"There are no Indonesian cadets here, nor is there any such military program."

"There are at present 29 Indonesian trainees in Canada studying medicine, nursing, engineering, etc., under the Colombo Plan."

Exams Before Licences Face Rookie B.C. Hunters

A spokesman for the recreation and conservation department confirmed Friday, examinations before being issued a licence is being given to all first-time hunters.

$3,000,000 Pledged To Universities Fund

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than $3,000,000 has been promised by eastern Canadian companies to British Columbia's $28,000,000 three-university fund drive. Cyrus H. McLean, co-chairman of the drive for funds for the universities of Victoria, British Columbia and Simon Fraser, announced the figure but declined to give the names of the companies.

More than $8,000,000 has been collected or pledged so far, excluding the amount promised by the eastern companies.

The move has been under consideration for several years by both the fish and game branch of the government department and the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs.

The two bodies now sponsor the successful hunter firearm safety training program which, up to the end of 1964, had graduated approximately 5,700 hunters, 2,000 of these in the past year.

But the decision to proceed will require new legislation and this is not expected at the current session.

Courtroom Parade

Prostitute, 19 Gave Man $355

A Montreal man charged with living off the earnings of a 19-year-old prostitute told a court Friday the girl's money is "all intact, except for her expenses."

Confessed prostitute Christine Thorman, of Vancouver and Toronto, appeared Friday as chief crown witness in the case against Wallace Tadich, 28.

Tadich told the court he had made "presumptions" about how Miss Thorman earned the $355 he said she turned over to him while the couple were registered in city motels as man and wife.

TOOK HOTEL ROOM

They were in Victoria for a week in November and another week in December, according to evidence.

Miss Thorman told court she took a $2 Chinatown hotel room, where she earned the money by prostituting herself at $5 a client. All were Chinese she said.

She has just completed a one-month sentence imposed in the same court by Magistrate William Ostler late in December.

She had pleaded guilty under the vagrancy section of the Criminal Code of Canada.

THIRD PERSON

The pretty prostitute told court she turned over her money nightly to the accused. He denied this in the witness box and said the money was turned over to him in a lump sum to keep for the girl.

Tadich said the girl was saving the money for her expenses on a proposed trip to Las Vegas where Tadich and an unnamed third person planned to "make some money gambling on the odds."

The trial was adjourned until Feb. 2 with further cross-examination of Tadich to be conducted by the crown.

Marjorie Sam, Mount Newton Cross Road, was fined $300 and banned from driving for a month. She had pleaded guilty last week to impaired driving. She was charged Jan. 10 after being stopped in her car at Government and Johnson.

Myron W. Erickson, of HMCS Naden, was fined $25 for being found in a downtown beer parlor while under 21 years of age Jan. 6.

"I suppose you go there all the time," said Magistrate Ostler.

"No, sir," said the sailor.

"Your first time?"

"Yes, sir."

"Peculiar that you should be caught the very first time. That was bad luck," commented the magistrate.

B.C. Haul Of Fish Third Best

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia fishermen landed $48,300,000 worth of fish last year, the third highest value on record.

The department of fisheries said the figure compares with $49,000,000 in 1952 and the massive $52,300,000 in 1958.

Salmon landings were $30,200,000 last year, compared to $30,600,000 in 1962 and $37,100,000 in 1958, and the halibut fishery earned $8,300,000, second only to the record $10,900,000 in 1962.

RECORDS GIVEN

The department said 28,500,000 pounds of coho was worth $9,250,000, both records and the 12,100,000 pounds of springs was worth a record $5,500,000.

The 33,900,000 pounds of halibut landed is the fourth highest on record. But, at 56.7 per cent, it was the highest proportion of the total U.S.-Canada catch ever taken by Canadian fishermen.

Monster's 'Dip' Today Made of Dream Stuff

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 5½-ton steel monster that may some day probe the ocean depths in search of oil, will undergo its first deep-water test today.

The $60,000 diving vehicle will be lowered half a mile below the surface of Jervis Inlet, 70 miles north of here, to test for leaks. It will be unmanned.

The vehicle is the dream come true for two Vancouver skindivers—Don Sortie and Al Trice — and Seattle designer Mack Thompson.

The two-man apparatus is known as Pisces and its owners hope it can be used for deep-water oil exploration, pipeline and telephone cable inspections, research and development.

"With a system of external arms, the Pisces will be able to do anything man can do with his hands," said Mr. Sortie. It was built at Vancouver Iron Works to withstand pressures down to 8,000 feet. Conventional diving equipment is limited to depths of 300 feet, he said.

RCMP Getting Pay Increases

OTTAWA (UPI)—The government has approved RCMP salary increases ranging from $420 to $680 a year.

The increases go to ranks ranging from third-class constable to corps sergeant-major. The sergeant-major's salary was boosted to $8,045 from $7,365, and constables will now get $4,180 instead of $3,760.

Military-Type Security Given Exams

POWELL RIVER (CP)—Military-type security will surround the handling of printed examination questions before their distribution to students in district schools, says school board chairman Harold Newman.

He said security measures would be tightened right down the line following the discovery last month that more than 150 students at Max Cameron High School here had seen the questions before writing the exams.

RESULTS NULLIFIED

As a result of the discovery, results in English 30, Social Studies 20 and Economics 90 were nullified.

Mr. Newman said the security measures would be put into effect from the time the questions are printed until they are put in students' hands. Cabinets in which the papers are filed will be checked regularly.

NO CHEATING

Mr. Newman said that although there was no cheating at other district schools, the security measures in them would be tightened also.

He said he was still waiting for a report from Max Cameron principal D. M. Mitchell on what disciplinary action was taken against the students involved in the cheating.

Mr. Mitchell had indicated earlier that he would take no action other than nullifying results of the examination.

New Economic Woes, Strikes Imperil France

PARIS (UPI)—Fresh economic difficulties and further strikes threatened France Friday in the wake of a two-day walkout by 2,500,000 public utilities workers demanding increased wages.

The unions, which called the rolling strikes Wednesday and Thursday, threatened new walkouts.

The government studied reports of a growing production slump in many branches of industry.

The public utilities strikes and the spreading business slump were the result of a 16-month-old government economic stabilization plan which virtually froze public workers' wages and industrial and farming prices to combat strong inflationary trends.

Latest reports indicated more than a million workers now were putting in shorter hours in many industries while layoffs—unknown for years in France—were becoming a daily occurrence.

Wheat Outgo Near Record

OTTAWA (CP)—The four major wheat-exporting countries shipped 513,100,000 bushels during the first four months of the current crop year, exceeded only by the record 555,200,000 bushels in the same period of the previous year.

Biggest Victory of War

300 Reds Killed Viet Nam Claims

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. military spokesman disclosed that at least 300 Communist Viet Cong guerrillas were killed in a single operation this week—the biggest government victory of the war in South Viet Nam.

The battle took place in Dinh Tuong province Tuesday. First reports at the time had said 153 Viet Cong bodies had been recovered—in itself a record figure of Communist dead in a battle.

But the American spokesman said Friday reports from U.S. advisers at the scene had nearly doubled the toll. The Americans estimated that 200 Viet Cong had been wiped out—many killed in canals and swamps where their bodies could not be recovered.

REBELS TRAPPED

The spokesman said government forces lost only 18 killed and 78 wounded in dealing the blow to the Communist 261st Battalion, which was trapped in the rice paddy country around Ap Bac, 40 miles southwest of Saigon.

On the political front, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh conferred secretly in Saigon with powerful Buddhist leaders. Khanh was fresh from his triumph in toppling the government of Premier Tran Van Huong—a feat helped by the demonstrations and rioting of the Buddhists.

Death Stirs Fears of Unrest

MANILA (UPI) — The electrocuted body of a 22-year-old Filipino was discovered inside the U.S. Clark Air Base Friday, setting off fears that the incident might cause further anti-American demonstrations.

BURNED IN EFFIGY

In recent, separate incidents involving the killing of Filipino trespassers, thousands of Filipino demonstrators burned an effigy of Uncle Sam in front of the U.S. embassy here and waved placards critical of American policies in the Philippines.

At his weekly news conference

Friday, Foreign Secretary Mauro Mendez said Communists participated in the demonstrations.

The government's security agencies were aware of the activities of professional agitators who take advantage of any unrest and magnify it to suit their purposes, he said.

Mendez would not say whether the demonstrations actually were Communist-inspired, but commented:

Liberals to Meet

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Liberals will convene a full party caucus here before the resumption of parliament Feb. 16, likely on Sunday, Feb. 14, it was learned Friday.

The caucus will provide the first chance for members to discuss the government's image following the two-month recess. All members have spent at least part of the vacation in their home constituencies sampling the political winds.

"You know they take advantage of an protest to project themselves."

He said he would not judge the grievances of the demonstrators, adding:

"If the demonstration is for a just cause, why discourage it?"

BODY NEAR BY

The Filipino killed Friday was found by a repair crew sent to investigate a power failure that occurred shortly after midnight in the base's Dau area.

The crew found the 13,800-volt power line cut near the base of a pole, with the body lying near by. Near the body was a set of wire cutters and equipment for climbing the pole.

Motive for Slaying Mystery

Hubach

EDMONTON (CP) — The motive for the dynamiting of three U.S. jet fighters and slaying of a security guard at an Edmonton aircraft factory remained a mystery Friday as police continued investigations.

Harry W. Hubach, 36, of Edmonton, is to appear in court Feb. 5 on a charge of capital murder in the shooting of the security guard, Threnton J. Richardson.

Mr. Richardson, 48, of Edmonton, was found dead in a security office at the front gate of the Northwest Industries Limited plant at Edmonton's industrial airport Thursday.

Outside the Northwest Industries hangar, two F-84 jets were found almost destroyed by dynamite blasts, a third showed fire damage from a blast, and a fourth was found with an unexploded charge of dynamite attached to its belly.

Hubach was arrested by a score of police, who fanned out across the airport after the body of the security guard was found.

Police said Hubach worked briefly for Northwest Industries seven years ago.

'B.C. Education Moving Ahead'

Congratulations

Robert W. Armstrong, C.L.U.
 The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company congratulates Robert W. Armstrong, C.L.U., a representative of its Victoria District located at 1601 Blanshard Street, for attaining the C.L.U. designation upon successful completion of final examinations in the three-year Chartered Life Underwriter course administered by the Institute of Chartered Life Underwriters of Canada. This is the highest educational qualification a life underwriter can achieve.
 Attainment of this professional designation includes the study of such related subjects as economics, accounting, commercial law, corporation finance and psychology as well as an intensive study of life insurance law, fundamentals and practice of life insurance, group coverages, taxation and advanced life underwriting.

Bright things are happening in the field of education in British Columbia. R. R. Jeffels, registrar of the University of Victoria, told members of the Lions Club Friday.
 There is a challenge today, he said, to give education to every child who is worthy and capable of receiving it.
 The establishment, by legislation, of three new universities, Notre Dame, University of Victoria and Simon Fraser, was a hopeful sign.

TRAIN AND RETRAIN
 This province had accepted the challenge and it was heartening to know that, aside from the universities, provision had been made to train and instruct students at other levels.

"I foresee the day when a man may have to train and retrain himself two or three times in his lifetime," said Mr. Jeffels.

NEVER THE SAME
 Man entered a new era when the atomic bomb dropped on Japan, Mr. Jeffels said. "Things have never been the same since."

Since then machines have almost totally replaced muscle and computers are replacing human brains, he said.
 The science of geriatrics promised to keep men alive much longer—longer perhaps than nature intended.
 "These steps into the chrome and plastic age would, one would have thought, given man more time to concentrate on the spiritual side of his nature, but such is not the case," Mr. Jeffels said.

KIND OF MALAISE
 There was a kind of brooding over the world, a kind of malaise, a "depersonalization." Humans found it more and more difficult to belong to social clusters. Modern man found it difficult to attach to anything.
 This was one reason why education was so vital today.
MANKIND'S BEST
 Education was primarily for the individual—a sort of spiritual charge and an introduction to the best that man had left in the thousands of years of his history.

Deaf-Mute's Car Forces Ambulance Off Course

A police ambulance with siren and red light going was forced to make a left turn onto Blackwood off Hillside Thursday when a car ahead driven by a deaf-mute made a left turn, leaving the ambulance no steering room.

CAR STOPS

The small car, which failed to heed the siren and light, stopped as the ambulance drew alongside.

The ambulance, which was driven by Const. Harry Hoshal, was on the way to an accident at Government and Superior, and finished the trip without further incident.

WOMAN, 69, HURT

The ambulance took Mrs. Winifred Farley, 69, of 630 Superior, to St. Joseph's Hospital with leg and hand injuries.

Mrs. Farley was hit by a car as she was crossing Superior Street. She was in good condition Friday.

SECOND PEDESTRIAN

A second pedestrian, Marta Mortensen, 13, of 2530 Shelbourne, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital about an hour after being hit by a car while crossing Bay Street at Richmond.

She was released after a checkup.

Writers Won't Serve Those Who Look Drunk

VANCOUVER (CP) — Beer parlor waiters have been instructed by their union to refuse service to customers who appear to be inebriated, even if it means violating orders from their employers.

The move follows incidents in the Skid Road where two beer parlors and four employees have been charged with permitting drunkenness and serving persons apparently intoxicated.

Ethics Laxity Charged

Doctor Censured In Woman's Death

TORONTO (UPI)—A coroner censured a gynecologist for not co-operating with a general practitioner and said: "I don't think this is good ethics. This puts our profession down the drain."

The inquest, which is continuing, is into the death of Mrs. Doris Callus, 42. She died Dec.

6, five hours after she was admitted to hospital with acute general peritonitis in the vital organs, aggravated by acute pneumonia.

BOTH ON STAFF

Coroner F. K. Cruikshank asked Dr. Thomas G. Knowlton if he did not consider it unethical in not consulting Dr. Martin W. Chepesuik, a general practitioner.

Both doctors are on the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital, where Mrs. Callus died.

Witnesses testified Mrs. Callus became ill Nov. 28 after eating two ham sandwiches and drinking a glass of wine.

Her husband called Dr. Chepesuik two days later. Dr. Chepesuik testified he left a prescription for penicillin and a mild sedative.

PENICILLIN BEST

Members of the family testified Dr. Chepesuik's prescriptions were not filled and that shortly after the general practitioner left, Mrs. Callus called Dr. Knowlton.

Pathologist Hans Sepp told the coroner penicillin would be the first choice to deal with peritonitis.

Dr. Knowlton denied earlier testimony that he had told Mrs. Callus not to take anything. He said he examined her and found no pelvic disorder. He said she did not tell him she had diarrhea and had been vomiting.

Referee Fired Over Eye Test

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League announced Friday it is getting rid of George Hayes, a veteran linesman who refused to take an eye test.

"The NHL has exercised its option to terminate its contract with George Hayes, effective Feb. 14," the brief announcement said.

A league spokesman said Hayes was given a "period of grace" to take the test, but he did not.

Hayes, who has been with the NHL longer than any other employee except President Clarence Campbell, was suspended.

Speaking Briefly

Jan. 15 for his refusal to take the test, which was made compulsory for all league officials. The linesman had 19 years with the league.

Hayes refused the test, saying it is against his principles. "I feel I should be judged by the job I do on the ice and not by some report from an eye doctor," he said at the time.

Christmas Card Conditions at Green Mountain

There's not much green in view on Green Mountain, up near Nanaimo Lakes. Sno Birds Ski Club member Jack McLellan took this picture of snow conditions as they were last Sunday morning.

Since then 10 more inches have fallen on the seven feet of base. Motorists are urged to carry chains although lower roads are in good condition.

Bucks Aim at Leafs' Goalie In Drive for WHL Throne

Portland Buckaroos, who seem headed towards the Western Hockey League championship, came to town last night to try and do something about the Victoria Maple Leafs and, particularly, goalkeeper Al Millar. Staying in the runner-up spot up until Christmas, to a large extent because they won four in a row from the Leafs, the Buckaroos have made a post-season move that has put them on top of the heap. But the fact that last night's 2-1 win over the Totems in Seattle left their margin no more than three points, has been largely due to the about-face made by the Victoria club.

Since Christmas Day, the Buckaroos have a 9-4-3 record. It's neat but the Leafs, winning three and tying one of their last four games against Hal Laycoe's club, have kept it from being gaudy.

"Millar," says Laycoe, "has played some of the finest goal I've seen in those four games. He's been beating us."

Figures back up the Portland coach. His club has been beaten 3-2, 4-1 and 3-1 and tied 1-1 in its last four tries against the Leafs.

MIXED FEELINGS
Meanwhile, the Leafs, who could show within four points of second place in their weekend home-and-home series with the Buckaroos, are watching developments in California with mixed feelings.

Down there, the third-place Vancouver Canucks and San Francisco Seals and Los Angeles Blades, tied for fifth place after the Seals' 6-2 win over the Blades last night, are currently having a sort of a round-robin affair.

Victorians are starting to show increasing interest in the possibility that George Chuvalo might be the best hope for a Canadian heavyweight champion since the days of Tommy Burns. Chuvalo is only one fight away from a chance at a championship, either the one now held by Cassius Clay or the one to be recognized by the World Boxing Association after the March bout between Ernie Terrell and Eddie Machen.

Braves Pause Too Long Chinooks Grab Victory

By ERIC WESSELBY
Sometimes it doesn't pay to take a timeout in basketball.

University of British Columbia Braves must have been thinking this following their 61-53 loss to Victoria Chinooks at Central

Junior High School gym last night in the opening game of a best-of-three, Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League semi-final playoff series.

Braves had pulled to within five points of Chinooks midway through the second half, and had an opportunity to narrow the gap with free throws, when they called a timeout.

Chinooks, who had taken a 33-25 lead by the end of the first half, were faltering at this point, but the short rest provided them with the drive to once again assume command of the situation.

John Klassen's free throw rimmed the basket and the Chinooks were off and running, sparked by the outstanding performance of Ken Jackson.

PERFECT PASS

Jackson, who topped both teams with a 20-point night, broke the game open two minutes later, dropping in a shot from outside the key and putting Ron Bowker in for a basket with a perfect bounce pass.

Braves kept trying but Chinooks weren't to be denied. John Lauvaas, who had tough luck earlier in the game, suddenly found the range, and with Ron Bowker sinking timely free throws, it was all over for UBC.

FOULED OUT

Braves, who played a particularly aggressive game in the first half, ran into difficulties when Ken Kern and John Klassen both fouled out with less than nine minutes remaining.

Chinooks finished the game with a 38 per cent average on their shots, just slightly more than their regular season mark. Jackson, easily the dominant figure in the game, hit for eight field goals on 15 shots. Lauvaas was five for 13.

STRONG EFFORT

Although he didn't figure in the scoring, Rick Barnswell turned in a strong effort—until fouling out late in the game. His checking was instrumental in holding Braves' Vic Rahn to 10 points.

Chinooks, who had only one offensive rebound to their credit in the first half, picked up later in the game with Ken Gregory leading the way. Lauvaas, Gregory and Bowker, however, controlled things pretty well off their own boards.

AGAIN TONIGHT

Second game in the series is scheduled for Vancouver tonight, as is the second game of the semi-final series between Vancouver YMCA and CYO. CYO leads that round.

UBC-Inman 4, Turpin 4, Kennedy, Rice 7, Grist, Dugay, Kern 8, Blumenfeld 4, Quinn 4, Murray 2, Rahn 10, Klassen 5, Total 33.
Victoria-Lauvaas 11, K. Gregory 4, Hunter, Frampton, Newsham, Jackson 2, Barnswell, Spaven 7, D. Gregory, Bowker 11, Total 61.

Grocers Forfeit To Haida Chiefs

but knowingly used coach Bobby Burtwell, an ineligible player, so had to default the points.

Alberni could tie Grocers for first place with a victory over Haida Chiefs in Victoria tonight. However, Grocers will be given first place on the strength of a better performance against Alberni over the season.

Chiefs' Pete Simmonds will have his eye on the league scoring title tonight. He counted 31 points last night to put him only 20 behind Dave Way of Bakerv, who have played their last game.

Alberni's Neil Diron is 33 points behind Way so has an outside chance of nabbing the points crown himself.

Darrel Lorimer of Chiefs scored 28 points as Chiefs came up with one of their best games of the season.

Chiefs' coach Howard Tooby was particularly pleased with the way his club worked the ball around and got their plays down the floor.

Chiefs meet Grocers in the semi-finals starting next week.

Defensive Back Signs with Lions

VANCOUVER — Defensive halfback Dewey Lincoln, 22, who tied a United Football League pass interception record while playing at Indianapolis last year, has been signed by B.C. Lions of the Western Football Conference.

The defensive halfback played with Michigan State in 1961, '62 and '63 and was drafted by Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL but failed to make the team.

Lincoln is a graduate of Detroit's Hamtramck High School, which sent such as Willie Fleming and Lovell Coleman into the football world.

Four Goals for Army

Dave Stones Really Rolling
Four goals by Dave Stones, including a pair within 17 seconds with less than two minutes remaining in the game, gave Army a 5-5 tie with Pontiacs at Esquimalt Sports Centre last night.

In the first half of the Esquimalt District Hockey League twin bill, University of Victoria Vikings nipped Navy, 3-2, in the first of three four-point games for the university crew.

Vikings, who missed play because of Christmas holidays, play one four-point game against each league team.

Two minor penalties against Pontiacs at 17:30 set the stage for Army's comeback. Stones clicked for his third goal of the game at 18:33 and tied the score at 18:50.

Bob Fowler counted twice for Pontiacs and earned an assist.

A pair of first period goals by Glen Harper sparked Vikings in the opener. His performance was matched by Navy's Ray Gregoire.

Interest Swells for Chuvalo Fight

Victorians are starting to show increasing interest in the possibility that George Chuvalo might be the best hope for a Canadian heavyweight champion since the days of Tommy Burns. Chuvalo is only one fight away from a chance at a championship, either the one now held by Cassius Clay or the one to be recognized by the World Boxing Association after the March bout between Ernie Terrell and Eddie Machen.

Both Clay and the WBA have signified their acceptance of the winner of Monday's Chuvalo-fight will be shown only on a closed television circuit and will be available here at Memorial Arena will be out and the arena heated for the showing. Tickets are on sale at the arena box office, which will be open today from 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 and on Monday from 9:00 a.m. to fight time of 7:00 p.m. Tickets may also be purchased during tonight's Western Hockey League game.

New Skip for Dagg Rink

Roy Vinthers, who missed his chance for provincial curling honors a year ago through unusual bad luck, somewhat justifiably gets an unexpected chance to make it to the Canadian final in Saskatoon in March.

Thunderbirds Rugged Foes

Victoria's Crimson Tide could well meet its most formidable foe in the first round of play for rugby's McKelvie Cup.

The Tide plays University of British Columbia Thunderbirds at Macdonald Park this afternoon in a sudden-death game, starting at 2:30 p.m.

Thunderbirds, in winning 13 of 14 games played, have outscored their opposition, 273-69 in dominating Vancouver Rugby Union play.

Seven members of the James Bay Athletic Association of the Victoria Rugby Union have been named to the Tide along with four players from Cowichan, two from Oak Bay Wanderers and one each from University of Victoria and Navy.

Winner of today's game plays the winner of the March 6 North Shore-Vancouver semi-final for the trophy on March 13, won last year by the Tide.

Four other Vancouver sides play here today. UBC Braves play Oak Bay Wanderers and the UBC Tomahawks play Oak Bay seconds. Ex-Britannia plays University of Victoria and Georgians play James Bay.

Curling Club rink which last year won Canadian and world championships, and will be on the teehed today when play starts in the Pacific Coast Curling Association final in Chilliwack.

Dagg, who had skipped Leo Hebert, Fred Britton and Barry Naimark through club and zone play to the PCCA final, stepped down because of business commitments.

JOB FIRST

A paper company executive, Dagg was scheduled to attend a top-level management conference starting in Santa Barbara, Calif., at 8 Monday morning. He said that travel arrangements would make it impossible for him to compete in the association final without missing at least the start of the meeting.

"It was," Dagg said, "a difficult decision, but it was the only one I could make. A man's career must take precedence over his sports interests."

ASK SKIP

Dagg met with his rink Thursday to tell them of his decision not to compete. Hebert, Britton and Naimark later held a meeting of their own and decided to ask Vinthers to carry on in Dagg's place.

"We figured we were all playing well in our positions and while each of us has had skipping experience, it hasn't been lately," Britton explained. "So, we went after the best available man and got him."

Vinthers, eligible to replace Dagg because rinks competing in the PCCA final had until yesterday to name an official fifth man, lost to Dagg in the association final last February when his last rock on the last end of an extra playoff reversed turn.

Beaten, 7-8, by Port Alberni's Jim Marasco after an extra end in the semi-finals of the "A" side in the double-draw knockout, Vinthers defeated Abbottsford's Jake Block, White Rock's Tony Folk and Dagg to win the "B" side.

SOFT TAP

Vinthers took a 9-3 lead in the first six ends of the playoff but Dagg's rink rallied to pull even at 10-10 on the 11th end. On the last end, Dagg drew into the four-foot ring almost covered behind a front rock. Vinthers was right on beam as he played a soft tap but his rock reversed turn after it entered the house and slid inches by.

He starts his new job this morning against Jack Arnet's UBC rink, the other Lower Mainland zone winner, in the eighth of the "A" side of the double-knockout competition.

DRAW BYES

Ken Harris of Richmond and Neil Eyben of Whalley, the Fraser Valley representatives, meet in the other quarter-final at the same time. Tony Gutoski of Victoria and Dave Patterson of Comox, the Vancouver Island winners, drew byes and start this afternoon in the "A" semis.

"Winner of the PCCA playdown goes to Kamloops on Feb. 7 to meet the B.C. Curling Association winner in a best-of-three final for the B.C. berth in the Canadian final.

Two Golfers Share Lucky Open Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—New Zealand's Bobby Charles and young Billy Martindale fired sub-par golf Friday to overhaul the five first-round co-leaders and share the top spot midway of the $57,500 Lucky international Open with 36-hole scores of 138.

Charles carded a four-under-par 67.

Martindale had a second-round 69.

George Knudson of Toronto added a 69 to 71 to share 140 with three others.

Al Johnston of Montreal failed to make the 147 cut-off with a 76 for a 151 total.

The sunny day saw both the present British Open king, Tony Lema of nearby San Leandro, and defending Lucky champion Juan (Chi) Rodriguez, blow themselves out of the tournament with 75s and scores of 150.

Lema, then was disqualified when it was found he signed an incorrect score card.

Jack McGowan and Gardner Dickinson, two of the first-round co-leaders at 68, both shot even par-71 over the 6,722-yard layout to share second place at 139, one stroke behind the pace.

Another of the first-round co-leaders, Thomas (Butch) Baird, stayed in solid position for the $7,500 first prize with a 72 and 140.

George Archer, former San Francisco city amateur champion, put a 73 with his 68 for a 141, while rookie Jack Montgomery carded five bogeys on his final nine holes for 75 and 143.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver also was eliminated with 73-77-150.

Alaska Buries Only Body Off Lost Ship

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Just before Christmas, the freighter San Patrick, with 32 aboard, went aground on rocky Ulak Island in Alaska's Aleutian chain.

All aboard were presumed lost, but only one body was recovered. Burial was delayed while efforts were made to identify the drowned man. The efforts were unsuccessful.

Thursday, in the Anchorage city cemetery, the unknown sailor was buried. It is known only that, like all of the 32 crewmen, he was from northwestern Spain.

The Rev. John Marx of the Holy Family Catholic Church said a prayer for the unidentified seaman.

Makarios Hit By Greeks

ATHENS (AP)—The pro-government newspaper Eleftheria accused President Makarios of Cyprus Friday of no longer wanting union of the island with Greece.

In an open letter to Makarios, who also is the Greek Orthodox archbishop of Cyprus, Eleftheria said:

"The Greek people believe you do not want 'enosis' (union with Greece) because it would mean the end of your political career and your return, after the taste of world power, to your melancholy ecclesiastical duties.

"You are afraid that 'enosis' would mean the extension to Cyprus of the Greek law concerning appropriation and distribution to landless peasants of the large property of the Church of Cyprus."

Legislature Given Ultimatum

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Governor Dan Evans said Friday if the legislature has not resolved the controversial redistricting problem by the end of next week, he will take executive action "to try to jar things loose."

Evans said one of the options open to him would be to ask that the matter be taken away from the legislature and be put in the hands of a court-appointed master.

The legislature has been virtually paralyzed since it opened because of lack of agreement on a redistricting bill which would equalize population among legislative districts to assure equal representation.

venture Thursday in Hollywood—a wax museum of the stars of the screen.

Spoony Singh Sundher, 40-year-old father of six who lives at 3210 Bellevue, is backing the $120,000 enterprise on Hollywood Boulevard.

NO CONNECTION

Called Tussaud's Hollywood Wax Museum, the new attraction has no connection with Madame Tussaud's.

It features a chamber-of-horrors section—Hollywood version—such as made thousands shiver at Madame Tussaud's.

Another section contains figures of most of the cinema greats of the past and present.

GABLE, HARLOW

The figures include Clark Gable and Vivien Leigh in costumes from Gone With the Wind; Jean Harlow in a pink negligee (to be changed to white, since she always wore white); Jeanette MacDonald, Hedy Lamarr, W. C. Fields, Carole Lombard, Wallace Beery, Errol Flynn, Mary Pickford and Rudolph Valentino, to name a few.

Spoony Singh attended elementary school and Victoria High School.

BOTH ACTIVE

He and his wife, Chanchill, are both active in the Sikh community.

Chanchill is social convener of the two-year-old East Indian Women's Social Club of Victoria.

He said this was "shown clearly by the still continuing round" of United States-Canada price-cutting for export wheats.

Mr. Hamilton added: "Mr. Sharp doesn't really believe there are markets available for Canadian wheat in the world, and as late as the fall of 1964 was asking farmers to reduce their wheat acreages.

"This is a serious and awful blunder when wheat is needed throughout the world, and Canadian farmers are capable of growing it."

He said Mr. Sharp has steadfastly refused—even when requested by the Opposition—to visit new markets the Conservative government established in the Iron Curtain countries.

"The governments of these countries are sensitive to that fact," he said.

"Because he hasn't taken any steps to carry out his responsibilities in the political field to halt this price-cutting as he could and should have done, he is entirely responsible for the recent drops in wheat prices," Mr. Hamilton said.

"Mr. Sharp has failed completely" to carry out his duties to Western Canadian farmers.

Mr. Hamilton added:

By City's Thousands

Great Man
Is Mourned

By GARY OAKES

Victorians mourned for a great man Friday.

They filled Christ Church Cathedral for a special interfaith memorial service honoring Sir Winston Churchill.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and civic, military and provincial dignitaries joined with more than 2,000 others to pay tribute to the old British warrior.

Firm Faith

Churchill was praised in hymns, prayers, scripture readings and a personal tribute prepared by Archbishop Harold Sexton.

The archbishop said Churchill was not a pious man, but he had a firm faith in God which was largely the source of his matchless courage.

Archbishop Sexton called Churchill one of the greatest men in this generation, or of any other generation.

'Genuine Regard'

He said his death "is signalled by a rare expression of profound respect and genuine regard throughout the world."

Churchill was a lion-hearted leader, the archbishop said, "who, by his splendid example, his fine oratory and devoted leadership, kept the British people united, and single-minded when crisis was heaped upon crisis."

'Defiant, Buoyant'

"His defiant, buoyant, inspiring, urgent speeches were almost all that stood between Britain and invasion," the archbishop told the packed cathedral.

A veteran of the Boer and First World Wars, 82-year-old David Stirling, 896 Esquimalt Road, adjusts his cape before entering Christ Church Cathedral.—Ian McKinn

"He was enabled to mobilize the physical and spiritual resources of Britain, the Commonwealth and their allies, and at length, leading them through blood, sweat and tears, turned a seemingly impossible situation into a glorious victory."

'Lead, Not Follow'

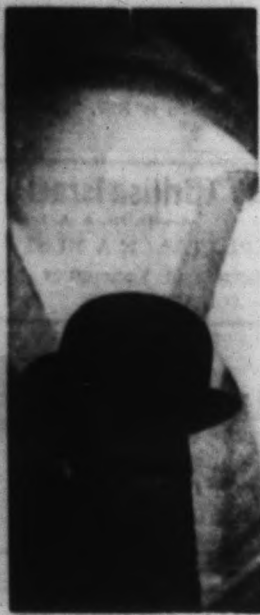

Archbishop Sexton said Churchill possessed "most of the requisites for the ideal statesman—candor, integrity and inflexible courage, enabling him to lead, and not merely to follow public opinion."

In bidding Churchill "a respectful farewell," the archbishop also praised Lady Churchill for her tender devotion in a long and happy home life.

"... And full with hearts we say of our most distinguished leader and brother, God rest his soul."

Expansion Possible

A transport department decision to relocate its marine radio station here may pave the way for further expansion of the University of Victoria.

The decision, which would release 10 acres of prime land adjacent to the Gordon Head campus, will be contained in the 1965-66 capital estimates, says Victoria Liberal MP David Groos.

This means the station should be relocated within two years, Mr. Groos said Friday night.

"It is certainly good news," said university development manager Floyd Fairclough.

REAR OF CAMPUS

"We've been negotiating for that property since 1961 and we certainly need it in the worst way."

Part of the 10-acre parcel now encroaches on the rear of the campus and it has long been considered in future development plans.

Mr. Fairclough explained the parcel was in the area planned for general athletic use in the future and would "almost round off the Gordon Head campus development."

PROBABLY BE SOLD

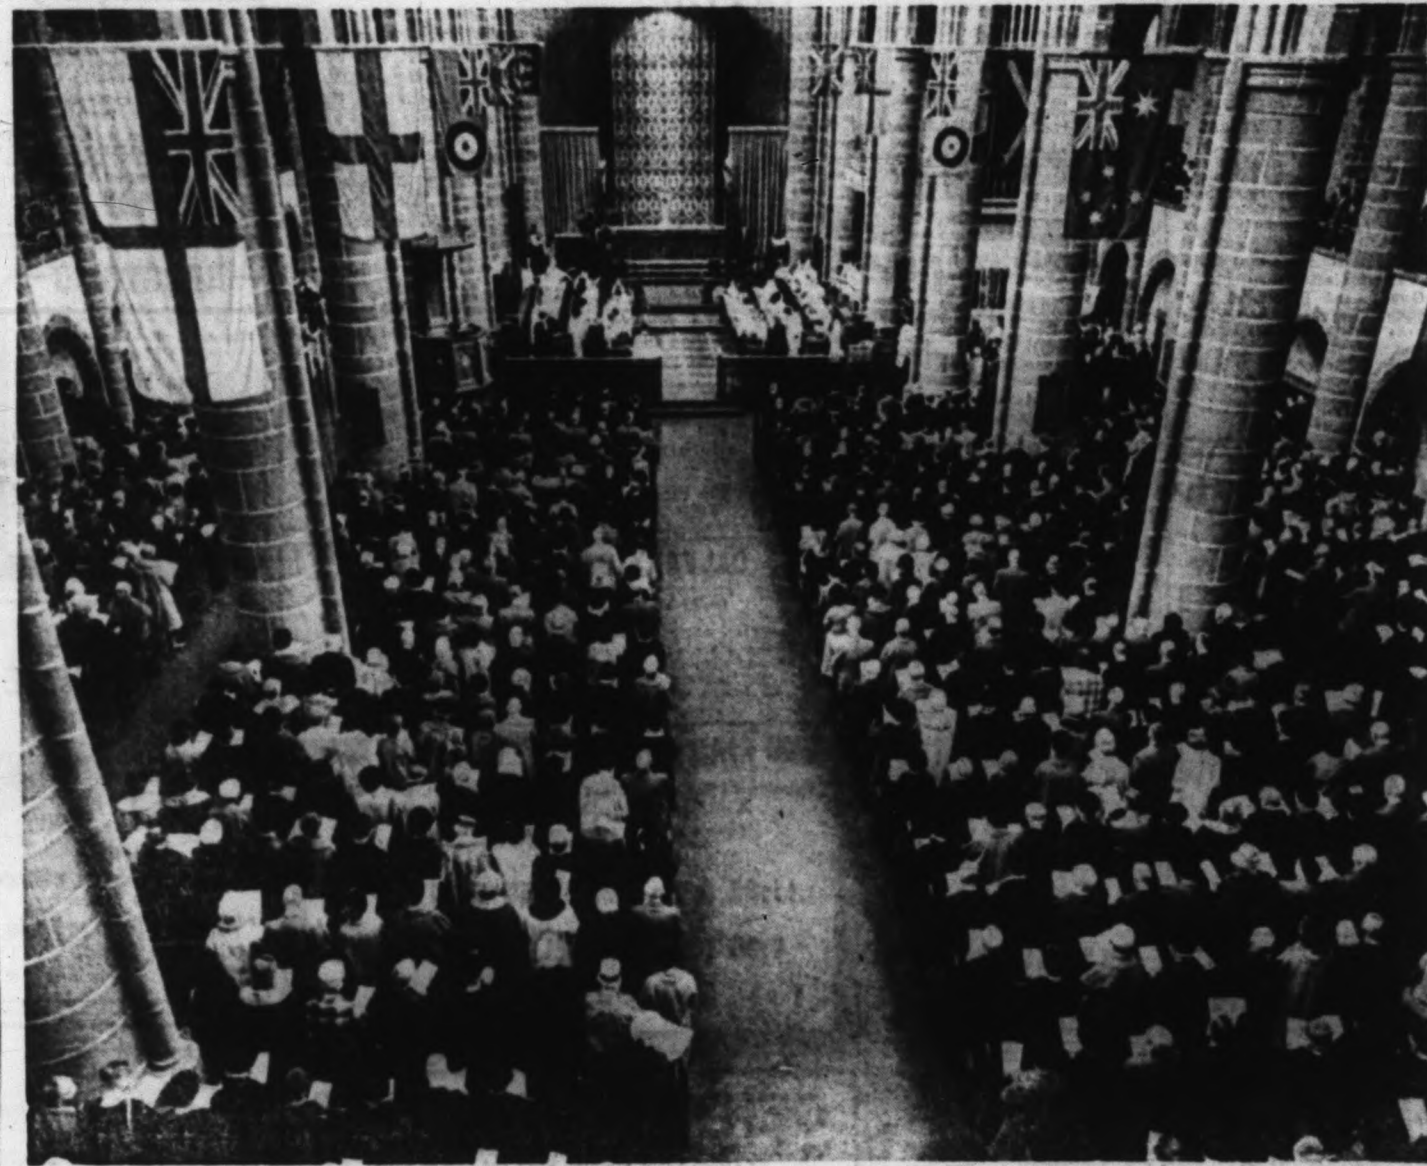

Mr. Groos said the parcel would probably be sold when relocation of the marine station takes place.

Mr. Fairclough estimated it would be worth between $3,000 and $5,000 an acre.

To Finance Visitors' Bureau

Business Tax Increase Hinted

By A. H. MURPHY
Colonist City Hall Reporter

Complete revamping of the Victoria Visitors' Bureau with new methods and more money was foreseen Friday following a city hall conference between aldermen and delegates from the Chamber of Commerce.

Suggestion was made, at the meeting, that the present system of financing the bureau, based on membership and voluntary contributions, be discarded and that money be raised instead by increasing the business tax.

TAX-COLLECTOR

"In this way the city would be acting as a tax-collector for business," said Hugh Stephen, a member of the chamber group.

Chamber vice-president, Richard Bower, thought expert advice should be obtained before any definitive action is taken toward re-organization.

"Why don't we ask Leo Dolan to come out here for a week as our guest in order to put us on the right track in this business?" he asked.

G. Conway Parrott, president of the bureau, thought this a good idea and suggested that it

$400,000
Raised
In Victoria

More than $400,000 has been raised in Victoria by the universities advance gift division.

A total of $8,327,962 has been collected for the universities of Victoria, British Columbia and Simon Fraser, Vancouver Island division chairman announced.

More than 625 volunteers have been signed up and leaders are looking for an estimated 10,000 men and women.

Campaign kits have been issued to 278 canvassers who will seek gifts of $5,000 or more each during February.

be one of the proposals to be studied by a small committee which will delve further into the whole problem.

D. Leo Dolan, a leading figure in the Canadian tourist industry and for many years head of the federal bureau, declined the position of commissioner of the Victoria bureau in 1963 when William Hawkins resigned.

Mr. Hawkins was succeeded by Alan Maclean who recently resigned to re-enter private business.

ONLY FAIR WAY

A general assessment is the only fair way to raise money, said E. E. Pearlman. However, the suggested figure of $75,000 is not nearly enough to do an efficient job for the city and the Island.

If the city continues to give the $50,000 it now contributes and $75,000 is raised by increased taxation then the total might be nearer the mark, he said.

Before anything effective can be done the public must be educated to the value of the tourist industry to the community, members were agreed. A public relations job has to be done to show people that the benefits, in terms of dollars, affects every household.

NOT CITY-RUN

"If this money is not brought into the community by the tourist industry, it will have to be raised through general taxation and this would hit every home," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The mayor emphasized, later in the meeting, that if money were raised by taxation through a city agency, it does not mean that the bureau would be "city-run."

"That is not our intention at all," he said. "We would merely be acting as collector."

"Isn't it odd that if a sawmill shuts down or the shipbuilding industry is hit, there is a general concern. Yet these industries may employ only a few hundred men. No one worries too much about the tourist industry and yet it is, by long odds, our biggest source of income," said Mr. Pearlman.

Job Hunter Loses
Clothes to Thief

A man who came to Victoria to find a job lost to a thief all of his spare clothing from his unlocked car as it was parked on Cormorant Friday.

John Sorenson of Aldergrove told city police he had been hired at HMC Dockyard. Value of the stolen clothing and other property was $350.

Dim, Slippery

Four Hurt
By Cars
During Rush Hour

Slippery streets, poor visibility and rush-hour traffic caused four injuries in accidents Friday.

Police were hard put to keep pace during the height of the accident period from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The majority of the accidents were of the fender-bender variety which left only egos injured.

Mrs. Ethel Roberts, 63, of 1772 Bay Street, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital after being hit by a car while crossing Fort Street at Richmond. She was released after treatment.

TWO-CAR CRASH

Police said the car was driven by Mrs. Olive Hulme of 1716 St. Ann.

Dorothy Marsden of 870 Darwin was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with suspected head injuries after being involved in a two-car collision at Superior and Oswego.

She was also released after treatment.

A juvenile motor bike rider was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital from View Street near Quadra after her bike collided with a car driven by Winston Evans of 3512 Plymouth Road.

CHECKUP, RELEASED

The girl was released after a checkup.

A two-car crash at Esquimalt Road and Lampson sent Mrs. Ethel Pearce, 78, of 890 Fullerton to St. Joseph's Hospital. She was in good condition.

Mrs. Pearce was a passenger in a car driven by Gladys Stewart, 34, of 624 Langford. Driver of the other car was Joseph Holley, 23, of 1109 Princess Avenue.

Calls Dandy
Both
So Handy

Saanich fire department had two close calls Friday, close to home that is.

The department ambulance was summoned when a taxi driver rushed into the adjoining police station to report his passenger was either ill or dead. It turned out the gentleman was under the weather.

Later firemen had to don smoke masks and rush into the furnace room of the police building to douse a smoking incinerator.

Pigeons Still Serving

VIENNA (Reuters)—Even in the age of telephone and radio communications, carrier pigeons still serve the public in the mountains of Austria's Tyrol province.

Tyrol's Alpine rescue squads, and some law-favorites, still use them as their favorite, and often almost only, means of communication.

The Tyrolese argue that pigeons are much easier to carry than heavy radio gadgets, as well as cheaper than the installation of telephone lines.

Radio communication is not always possible in the Alps because short wave is badly disturbed by the high mountains.

But the pigeons find their way through even the most rugged areas.

Delegates Exercising For Course at Banff

A federal grant from the National Fitness and Amateur Sports Council has made possible a physical education refresher course for women of Alberta and British Columbia at the Banff School of Fine Arts next month.

Mrs. G. C. Main, of the Victoria YWCA, was appointed by national office of the YWCA in Toronto to direct the course, which is open to women teaching, or interested in teaching, physical education in recreational programs or related fields.

The week-long course will include classes in educational gymnastics, weight control and fitness, basic techniques for exercise, and creative dance and jazz.

Highly qualified instructors are Miss Pat Canger, on the faculty of the University of Alberta; Miss Eve Wiseman, UBC; Mrs. Isobel Seaman of Edmonton, and Mrs. Jacqueline Sears of Gabriola Island, who teaches at the local YWCA.

There will also be group discussions, on pertinent topics.

BRITISH-ISRAEL

British Israel World Federation, Victoria Branch, will meet at 8 p.m., Feb. 1, in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street, with Rev. J. G. Sproule of Vancouver as guest speaker. His topic will be on The Closing Age.

The course is the second part of a three-year plan submitted to the council by the YWCA of Canada. It is one of five regional courses being held across Canada this year. Victoria delegates are already getting into condition by participating in various dances and exercise classes currently in session at the local YW. Registrations for the course are still being accepted by Mrs. Main.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: We are two widows in our 60s who must work to support ourselves. We both dislike shop jobs, clerking and the like. What we enjoy most (and do best) is cooking and housekeeping.

What would you think about us getting jobs as housekeepers for unmarried men—either widowers or bachelors? At this stage of life neither of us would want to take orders from a woman. I strongly suspect you don't want to take orders from a man either. What you would like is a couple of nice, tame bachelors or widowers who will let you take over.

We are both respectable ladies with grown children. Please give us your opinion. —S and A

Dear S and A: You say you do not want to take orders from a woman. I strongly suspect you don't want to take orders from a man either. What you would like is a couple of nice, tame bachelors or widowers who will let you take over.

I'm sure there are men around who will welcome the arrangement and more power to you if you can find them.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you settle an argument which has been going on and on and on?

My husband says we should keep the car doors locked at all times. He claims this should be done as a safety measure, to be sure the kids don't fall out.

I say the car doors should not be locked, that kids should be taught not to lean on car doors, and that disciplined youngsters do not fall out of cars.

My father, who was a well-educated man, always told us that in case of an accident it is better to have the car doors open so that the person can be thrown free of the wreck. Please print your reply and settle the question. HIM AND HER

Dear H and H: I consulted my friends at the National Safety Council and this is what they told me:

Car doors should be locked. The person who is thrown from a wreck is about 10 times likelier to be killed or seriously injured.

A locked car door, plus a seat belt, can and does save thousands of lives every day. So lock up and buckle up. (P.S. Your father may have been well-educated, Dearie—but on other subjects.)

Dear Ann Landers: My 13-year-old son is breaking my heart. Ira was a considerate, well-mannered boy until he met this girl six months ago. Now we can't agree on what day of the week it is.

His whole life is wrapped up in the girl and I am sick of it. The first thing Ira does when he gets out of bed in the morning is call her on the phone. Then he goes to work.

The minute Ira comes home he calls her again, gulps his dinner and runs to her house. He stays there until all hours of the night. I can't understand why her mother allows it. The girl is still in school. On weekends he spends every waking minute over there.

When I ask Ira to do an errand for me he says he hasn't got time. He has flipped his lid over this girl and I've told him unless he straightens around he must move out of the house. Am I right or wrong? —HADDIT

Dear Haddit: Obviously you've lost control. Now you must keep the arteries of communication open in an effort to funnel some sense into your son's head. Be friendly and sympathetic. Don't drive him out of the house or you'll regret it. Some special counselling from a clergyman who understands boys could be useful. Get it promptly.

Fluttering Styles

Soft Crushable Fabrics Make Hats More Versatile

The crowning glory of a fashionable woman is her hat. Due to the vagaries of women's fashions, the millinery industry has had its "fallow" years. But now everything is on the upswing and forecasters predict a rosy future. Paris, from whence so many fashion blessings flow, has ordained that a well-dressed woman must have a suitable hat wardrobe to complement her clothes. Other factors have also combined to herald in a new millinery era. The interest in hats has increased in direct proportion to the deflation of hairdos. Women have become aware that hats can be functional as well as fashionable; whether they are used to cover a wild-haired or protect a new coiffure from the elements.

A survey of Canadian manufacturers indicates that the soft, young Mademoiselle look—modified for older women—will be predominating the spring and summer scene. Hats with a back interest, whether it be a trim, the tilt of a brim or draping, will also be popular.

Supple, crushable berets, snoods and turbans are styled in countless ways, some with little peak brims, cuffs or bands. This type of hat is a blessing for the woman who leads an extremely active life, as well as the traveller. And since many of these styles can be tilted or draped in a variety of ways, they are particularly flattering to the woman who has difficulty in choosing a becoming shape.

New editions of the motorcycle helmet have also lost their rigidity. They're now made in soft, pliable fabrics with two loose tie ends replacing the thin chin strap.

Large, floppy brimmed or sailor hats are experiencing a strong revival, thanks to the "My Fair Lady" influence. As a rule, they're tailored rather than a replica of the fussy, garden party type of hat cherished at the turn of the century. Even the "ice cream" hats—a term used to describe the larger, fuzziest ones—rely on an organza bow or a swathe of veiling, rather than a bowful of flowers or feathers, for their effect.

Another style to note in the seasons ahead is the perennially popular roller. Roller bowlers, with the roller brim and bowler crown, team effectively with tailored suits and slim silks and cottons.

Fabrics run the gamut from alpaca stitched and Milan straw to silk shantung and light, airy wool tweeds and boucles. Silk prints, ranging from stripes, dots and flowers to abstracts and paisleys, are widely featured. Cottons are used in novel ways. Some are finished with a tweed effect or have a wadded texture.

Feminine version of the high-crowned cloche is this model in white straw, edged and banded with a contrasting ribbon. — (Orsaggh of Montreal photo)

Water-repellent cotton poplin is used in a variety of rain hats that are really pretty enough to blossom forth on sunny days, too. Helmets, jockey types and sou'westers seem to be the favorites in this area. Hats that are co-ordinated with coats, suits and dresses, for a total look, are made from the same fabrics as the latter, even to the matching trims.

White dominates color for spring and summer, either on its own or in combination with other colors. After basic white and black, navy seems to be a favorite, followed by primrose pink, cornflower blue, biscuit to coffee shades, lemon and jade. Children's millinery is a thriving but little publicized branch of the industry. Manufacturers in this field believe that you have a lifelong customer if you can train a child to be fashion conscious.

Small girls love to copy their mothers, so close attention has to be paid to adult stylings. In one area, however, the youngsters have been leaders. They have favored the co-ordinated look for years. It might be a new concept for the adults, but the children think it's "old hat."

Writing and Aiding Children Still First with Pearl Buck

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Me retire? From what?" asked Pearl Buck.

At 72, the woman who has written close to 60 books and holds the Nobel and Pulitzer prizes for literature, is still writing.

She's also involved in enough other activities to exhaust most women half her years.

She's studying dancing, and as she said, "I can do a cha cha if I have to." She's making movies. And she's busy with a new project to aid children of American servicemen and Asian mothers.

It is for this last that she has established the Pearl S. Buck Foundation, of which she is board chairman and treasurer. The foundation carries several steps further the work she has been doing with children of mixed Asian-American blood, through Welcome House, Inc.

An adoption agency which since its founding in 1949 has located permanent homes for "many hundreds," she said.

"But adoption can't meet all the needs," she said in an interview. "I've visited Asia recently. There are thousands to be cared for."

These, Miss Buck said, are the pathetic cases because "they are not treated the same by either side. They're outcasts without opportunity."

"We'd like to see that they get a chance in their own country."

Miss Buck—estimated that there are at least 50,000 children of mixed blood in Korea, that at the end of the U.S. occupation in Japan there were 200,000 she said the U.S. army put the figure at 5,000, and there are "unknown numbers in Okinawa and now Viet Nam."

The foundation will work through established institutions in the Asian countries, but a representative from the foundation will also be on the scene.

"In Korea, for instance, we'll be working right through the government's child placement service," she said.

Miss Buck's interest in dancing is helping to raise money for the foundation. A student at the Arthur Murray Studios for the last two years, she's gotten the 350-some studios to stage balls, with proceeds going to the foundation.

Harry Evans, president of Arthur Murray, Inc., explained that the studios had pledged at least $1,000,000 to the foundation, to be raised in the next five years. And Miss Buck puts in guest appearances at the functions.

She is scheduled to be in Montreal, Feb. 13, and has a full spring trip cross-country that will find her in Honolulu by May 8.

Meanwhile, two more of her books, "Death In The Castle" and "The Big Fight," will join "A Joy of Children" and "Welcome, Child," currently in the bookstores.

"How do I find time for everything?" she replied. "Well, I never think of time. And children's books write easily."

Then she talked of her interest in Stratton Productions, Inc., whose latest film is "The Guide," made in India. Miss Buck is co-owner of the film company, co-author of the screen play.

The author was born Pearl Comfort Sydenstricker, in Hillsboro, W.Va., June 26, 1892. As an infant she went with her parents to China, where they served as Presbyterian missionaries. The China in which she grew up provided the background for her "The Good Earth," which won her a Pulitzer in 1931. In 1938, she received the Nobel prize, the first American woman so honored.

Miss Buck was married in 1935 to Richard J. Walsh, the president of the John Day Co., her publisher, and the editor of Asia magazine. Walsh died in 1960. Miss Buck is mother, by adoption, of nine children, and there are now 10 grandchildren.

She took up dancing, she said, because "it's the most marvelous exercise. You should see the number of older people in my class. I do believe dancing prolongs life."

But He's Only One in Bus Poll

Fare's Fair, Says Saanich Pensioner

By DON GAIN

Bus riders in downtown Victoria Friday showed they were 11 to one against the B.C. Hydro's recent fare increase.

All the women condemned it firmly. High school students were against it, particularly when it ate into their allowances, but one man said the increase was justified.

"Words wouldn't express what I feel," said one woman who did not wish to be identified. "Something should be done for people who live in one room on a small income."

"These people have to get out or they'd crawl up the wall. Some adjustment should be made. It's no hardship to me, but I grudge it. A 15-cent fare would have been reasonable." Another woman who wishes to remain anonymous said the $1 grant to needy pensioners was not much use, but a $5 pass would be a big help.

Here are the other reactions:

"It's tough," said Mrs. Mary Bowden, 4142 Dalmeny, a housewife, "but I have no suggestions for a remedy."

"I don't like it," said Mrs. Robert Hetherington, 1589 McRae. "It's hard on old age pensioners and people with low incomes. The B.C. Hydro should subsidize the buses with its power profits."

"It isn't fair," said 15-year-old Kenneth Hutchinson, 38 Padon, a Central Junior High School student. It now costs him $1 a week instead of 50 cents to go to school. "It's horrible," said Sandy Quissy, 16, of 135 Burnside West, a Colquitz Junior High student. "I have to pay it out of my allowance."

In favor of the raise was William Macham, 76, of 821 Jasmine, a retired provincial employee.

"Rising costs and wages demand it," he said. "I think Mr. Bennett's attitude toward all these utilities, putting them on a paying basis, is very fair. It is a hardship to many, but like myself they'll have to ride less."

Joseph Kollman, 3145 Donald, a pensioner who works as a gardener, objected to the increase but was philosophical about it.

"It's not easy," he said. "I'm not on a full pension but there is no way out. 'Nobody can do anything about it. They'll just have to take it or stay home.'"

Four students questioned said they were against the increase on principle, but didn't seem too concerned about it. They said they could ride between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on school days for 10 cents and to ride as a student.

What do you want to know?

"You're too old to ride as a student."

Inquest Omitted In Death of Boy

PUNNICHY, Sask. (CP) — No inquest will be held into the death of an eight-year-old boy who froze to death here, the coroner Dr. G. W. Sykes, says. Arthur Blair Dufour was discovered by George Helrose, 12, and his sister, Elisea, 12, on the front steps of their home. Dr. Sykes said the results of an autopsy, performed by Dr. Derek Dexter, a pathologist at the Grey Nuns Hospital in Regina, disclosed the boy died of exposure. Dr. Sykes said circumstances did not warrant an inquest. "An inquest is called to establish the cause of death," he said, "and it's perfectly obvious how the boy died." He added there was "no criminal factor" involved.

NEW YORK — The Duke of Windsor said the late Sir Winston Churchill had a hand in writing the abdication speech in which the duke, then King Edward VIII, gave up his throne for American divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Simpson. "I've always been grateful for the support he gave me," the duke said. He added that "there were a few Churchillian remarks in the speech." The Duke and Duchess left here for France aboard the liner United States. Doctors' orders prevented the duke from attending Sir Winston's funeral.

WICHITA, Kan. — Bridgette Kay Bell protested loudly when she was asked to display two lower front teeth with which she was born Jan. 24 at St. Francis Hospital in Wichita. She may howl louder in near future as mother, Mrs. Donald Bell said two teeth may have to be pulled.

Hundreds Flee Oregon Flood

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The crest of the second Willamette River flood of the winter rolled slowly downstream Friday, chasing hundreds from their homes.

The river failed to reach the heights of last month's flood, which was the worst in the history of Oregon.

The crest passed the state capital of Salem Friday afternoon, reaching 26 feet. That was six feet over flood stage, but four feet under the December level.

The river forecast centre said the worst is over. Rain eased off and all headwaters were reported dropping.

Flooding will continue, however, along the lower reaches of the Willamette for several days.

At Randle, Wash., a flood and slide killed Mr. and Mrs. William Mullin, both 70, in their house.

HELICOPTERS USED
Helicopters had to be used to rescue a number of persons in Idaho and Oregon.

Warm weather melted snow in northern Idaho and sent streams out of their banks in the Lapwai Valley. The community of Culdesac was flooded. Helicopters flew out to bring in some residents of Sweetwater.

With the rain decreasing in Oregon, the forecasters said the peak will be 25 feet at Portland at midnight Sunday. That would be seven feet over flood stage, but five feet under the December record.

Gun salutes, muffled cadences,
Prayers of commoners and kings

LAST JOURNEY

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill is making his last journey today to the steady boom of gun salutes, the muffled cadences of thousands of marchers and the prayers of his Queen, his countrymen and distinguished statesmen of the world.

Shortly before 10 a.m. the body of the greatest British statesman of the century was lifted gently from the catafalque in Westminster's "Hall of Kings" where it lay in state three days, and was borne in solemn procession to St. Paul's Cathedral.

Queen Elizabeth herself, surrounded by her family, was the chief mourner of the nation as the sad memorial service unfolded in tribute to the indomitable man who led his country to glorious victory in the Second World War.

NEVER BEFORE
Never before had a British sovereign paid such tribute to a commoner among her people. Never before, Britain clearly felt, had it owed so much to one man.

Sir Winston, who died Sunday at the age of 90, could have been entombed among the immortals at Westminster Abbey.

He chose instead a simple country grave beside his parents far from the scenes of his glory.

NEAR BIRTHPLACE
It was to this grave in the Oxfordshire village of Bladon, close to his birthplace, that the statesman's body was to be taken by launch, train and hearse from St. Paul's.

At Bladon, a simple Church of England funeral service was to commit him to the ground.

CLAD IN BLACK

The young Queen, clad in black and wearing pearls, the Jewel of Tears, joined in prayer in St. Paul's with Sir Winston's grieving family, his most distinguished colleagues, and 3,000 dignitaries from 111 nations assembled to do the great man honor.

Among them were four kings, one other queen, a sultan, five other heads of state and 16 prime ministers.

Britons Almost Overcome

LONDON (CP) — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker paid homage to Sir Winston Churchill Friday and said later he was deeply moved at "seeing the British people almost overwhelmed with grief."

Diefenbaker and his wife went to Westminster Hall where Sir Winston's body lay in state.

Diefenbaker said the great hall was associated with many famous events in Britain's past, but "I don't think there has ever been anything in Westminster Hall to approach the greatness of these hours."

Diplomacy Amid Grief

LONDON (UPI) — Summit meetings began Friday as world leaders assembled for the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

French President Charles

de Gaulle, who arrived Friday, launched high-level diplomatic talks.

Under heavy security, De Gaulle went directly to Westminster Hall to view the catafalque bearing the body of his old wartime comrade, then proceeded to Buckingham Palace where he was received by Queen Elizabeth.

He met with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson later and sources said a meeting of the two in Paris in the next few weeks has been arranged.

It was the first face-to-face encounter of French and British leaders since De Gaulle barred Britain from the European Common Market two years ago to the day.

The meeting was surrounded by protocol considerations.

No. 10 Downing Street said De Gaulle invited Wilson to the residence of the French ambassador.

Paris sources said the meeting was suggested by Wilson.

De Gaulle, as head of state, was precluded by diplomatic protocol from calling on the prime minister at Downing Street.

Wilson scheduled a meeting with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard to be followed by a meeting with State Secretary Dean Rusk.

In the flurry of diplomatic activity, Rusk met Friday with Britain's newly-appointed Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart in the American embassy.

Quiet Reverence

Toast His Memory In the Local Pubs

BY HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson, viewing the crowds at ancient Westminster Hall, says the mourners at Sir Winston Churchill's bier showed a quiet, very deep reverence, so unlike "the violent, intense, shattering grief" displayed at President Kennedy's funeral in Washington more than a year ago.

Pearson told reporters Friday that when he attended the Kennedy funeral he could sense an emotional outburst, almost of anger, that the youthful president had been cut down even before he had a chance to do his work.

But in Churchill's case, there was a feeling here and in Canada of intense sorrow, but more a sense of satisfaction that Churchill had been allowed by destiny to complete his task, and Britons could toast his memory in the local pubs.

After paying his homage at the catafalque, Pearson joined former U.S. president Dwight Eisenhower and other high dignitaries at a reception given by Earl Alexander, former governor-general of Canada. George Drew, former Canadian high commissioner to Britain, was a guest.

Lord Alexander will announce details Monday of a Commonwealth plan to raise funds from the public and governments to establish a Commonwealth scholarship fund in Churchill's honor.

Following attendance at the St. Paul's Cathedral funeral service for Sir Winston today, Pearson will be a guest of the Queen at a Buckingham Palace luncheon for heads of state.

After the funeral, he will confer with Prime Minister Wilson. Pearson said he did not know what issues Wilson intends to raise, but the Canada-U.S. agreement on duty-free automobile trade at the manufacturers' level may come up, since Britain has been worried about the impact of this agreement on Britain's vital automobile exports.

Convict Cited For Bravery

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — A Cornwall man who is serving a 12-month jail sentence for uttering a forged welfare cheque and attempting to escape jail has been awarded a Carnegie bronze medal for bravery.

City officials said Friday night they are trying to have Ronald Lapensee, 38, released—at least for the presentation of the medal and a $500 cheque.

Lapensee was nominated for the award for rescuing two men from the St. Lawrence River after they had fallen through ice during a fishing trip March 2, 1964.

Buddhists Warn Off U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang was reported to have told U.S. political officers Friday he wants Washington to keep hands off future Buddhist political campaigns in South Viet Nam.

Quang's eight-day hunger strike, with four other Saigon monks, built up pressure that led to the military ouster Wednesday of Tran Van Huong, the American-backed premier. American officials said they feel that, since the Buddhists now have had a major role in bringing down three governments, they are likely to try for more.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor called on Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh for their first conference since the South Vietnamese strongman threw out Huong and seized power again.

Khanh also had a talk with political leaders of central South Viet Nam, a stronghold of Buddhist power marked by continuing anti-American agitation.

His new acting premier, Harvard-educated Nguyen Xuan Oanh, ordered release of all persons arrested during the last week of demonstrations and riots except those suspected of being Communist Viet Cong agents.

Saigon authorities, heeding this order, released 79 Buddhist monks, 85 nuns, 132 students and 153 other persons.

But a Buddhist spokesman in Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, said his group is still not satisfied. He said it demands the expulsion of Taylor, punishment of Huong for alleged activity against Buddhism and installation of Brig. Gen. Nguyen Canh Thi as premier.

The military commander in the Hue area, Thi never used his troops against rioters such as the mob which sacked the U.S. Information Service Library in that city and buried hundreds of its books.

Victim of heavy rains in Washington and Oregon is this bridge over Scatter Creek near Enumclaw, Wash. The washout on U.S. Highway 410 isolated 150 residents in western Cascades. At Crystal Mountain, 37 miles east, 171 were stranded at a ski resort by slide which closed access road Wednesday. (Story of Northwest flood havoc, Page 32.)—(AP)

Canada, U.S. Just 'Realistic'

No Wheat Price War But Slashes Go Right On

From CP, AP, UPI

There's no wheat price war between Canada and United States—at least both say there isn't.

But meanwhile both continued to slash the price—to meet reductions by the other.

A trade source in Ottawa, while denying Canada has entered an actual price war with the United States, said international pricecutting, a record world wheat crop and increasing competition forced Canada to adopt a more realistic price level.

And in Washington it was announced the United States cut its export price of hard spring wheat another 13 cents Friday to meet a reduction by Canada.

In Winnipeg, the Canadian wheat board slashed the bulk of its export wheat prices Friday in what was said might be the last of a sudden series of reductions.

The U.S. cut made a total reduction of 18 cents in hard spring wheat since Monday, when price cutting began to sweep through world markets reflecting a desire to unload heavy supplies.

A highly placed official of the Crown marketing agency in Winnipeg said as far as can be pre-

Campbell River Says Thanks

Tireless Doctor Retires After 37 Years' Service

By JOY HUNTLEY

CAMPBELL RIVER — Dr. Noel Bathurst Hall retired recently after 37 years of service, 22 of which were spent in the far-flung Campbell River Hospital district.

For two years—1933 to 1935—he cruised the B.C. coast on the Columbia Coast Mission ship Columbia tending the sick and injured.

During the Second World War he served in Canada and overseas and was invalided home with the rank of captain.

Bishop's Son

Dr. Hall was born in Jamaica, the son of an Anglican bishop. He earned money for his medical training by working as a mucker in the Kootenay mines of B.C.

He graduated from McGill University in 1927 and interned for a year each at Children's Memorial and General Hospitals in Montreal. He completed his internship at Vancouver General Hospital.

While in Montreal he met his wife, the former Dorothy Osmond, a surgical nurse.

Joined Mission

For three years he was in practice with Dr. Hugh McMillan and then joined the Columbia Coast Mission.

Deciding to settle down in 1935, he set up practice in Campbell River and opened an office above the general store at the foot of the old government wharf.

He continued to practise here until 1940, when he joined the army as a medical officer. In 1947 he resumed his practice in Campbell River.

All Weather

In his years of service, Dr. Hall has endeared himself to hundreds of people for his unselfish devotion to duty, which took him to sick and injured by boat or plane in all kinds of weather.

Parkville Report

Buy Fire Truck Chief Advises

PARKSVILLE — Fire chief William Wheeler has recommended in his annual report to the village council the purchase of a new fire truck for the village.

Chief Wheeler said the present truck went into service in 1950 and the growth of Parkville and increased size of its buildings are making the equipment inadequate.

His recommendation, which is being studied by the council, also noted insurance rates and extensions of service.

The chief's report said there were no major fires in 1964 and total loss by fire during the year amounted to only $1,200.

The volunteer department answered 20 alarms, eight inhalator or rescue calls and one false alarm.

The 15-man crew also conducted 160 inspections of public buildings and rendered public service on 16 occasions. Fifty meetings or drills were held during the year with an average attendance of 12 of the 15 men.

Referee Fired Over Eye Test

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League announced Friday it is getting rid of George Hayes, a veteran linesman who refused to take an eye test.

"The NHL has exercised its option to terminate its contract with George Hayes, effective Feb. 14," the brief announcement said.

A league spokesman said Hayes was given a "period of grace" to take the test, but he did not.

Hayes, who has been with the NHL longer than any other employee except President Clarence Campbell, was suspended Jan. 15 for his refusal to take the test, which was made compulsory for all league officials.

The linesman had 19 years with the league.

Hayes refused the test, saying it is against his principles.

"I feel I should be judged by the job I do on the ice and not by some report from an eye doctor," he said at the time.

National Hockey League player Red Kelly, Liberal MP for Toronto-York West, has suggested to Jim Worrall, president of Canadian Olympic Association, that Toronto would be a good site for 1976 Olympics...

Swim coaches from British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and the northwestern United States are expected to attend clinic conducted by Forbes Carlile, Australian Olympic swimming coach, in Edmonton, March 19-21.

Howard Kirby, Vancouver, will also lecture at the clinic.

Braves Pause Too Long Chinooks Grab Victory

By ERIC WESSELY

Sometimes it doesn't pay to take a timeout in basketball.

University of British Columbia Braves have been thinking this following their 61-53 loss to Victoria Chinooks at Central

Junior High School gym last night in the opening game of a best-of-three, Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League semi-final playoff series.

Braves had pulled to within five points of Chinooks midway through the second half, and had an opportunity to narrow the gap with free throws, when they called a timeout.

Chinooks, who had taken a 33-25 lead by the end of the first half, were faltering at this point, but the short rest provided them with the drive to once again assume command of the situation.

John Klassen's free throw rimmed the basket and the Chinooks were off and running, sparked by the outstanding performance of Ken Jackson.

PERFECT PASS

Jackson, who topped both teams with a 20-point night, broke the game open two minutes later, dropping in a shot from outside the key and putting Ron Bowker in for a basket with a perfect bounce pass.

Braves kept trying but Chinooks weren't to be denied. John Lauvaas, who had tough luck earlier in the game, suddenly found the range, and with Ron Bowker sinking timely free throws, it was all over for UBC.

FOULED OUT

Braves, who played a particularly aggressive game in the first half, ran into difficulties when Ken Kern and John Klassen both fouled out with less than nine minutes remaining.

Chinooks finished the game with a 38 per cent average on their shots, just slightly more than their regular season mark. Jackson, easily the dominant figure in the game, hit for eight field goals on 15 shots. Lauvas was five for 13.

STRONG EFFORT

Although he didn't figure in the scoring, Rick Barnswell turned in a strong effort until fouling out late in the game. His checking was instrumental in holding Braves' Vic Rahn to 10 points.

Chinooks, who had only one offensive rebound to their credit in the first half, picked up later in the game with Ken Gregory leading the way. Lauvaas, Gregory and Bowker, however, controlled things pretty well off their own boards.

AGAIN TONIGHT

Second game in the series is scheduled for Vancouver tonight, as is the second game of the semi-final series between Vancouver YMCA and CYO. CYO leads that round.

High-Level Architecture

Attractive Landscaping

Buttle Lake Mine 'Will Lure Tourists'

By JOY HUNTLEY

CAMPBELL RIVER — The Western Mines Ltd. minerals development project at Buttle Lake in Strathcona Park will be as much a tourist attraction as it will a mine, says company general manager C. M. Campbell.

He told the Campbell River Chamber of Commerce Thursday night things are beginning to move after 4½ years of activity at the mine site, and an investment of $10,000,000 will be required to bring the mine into production.

The job must be done well, since the mine is in a park, said Mr. Campbell. The company plans a high level of architecture in its buildings with attractive landscaping which will become a magnet for tourists.

The manager said a new mining development in which rejects are pumped back into the mill will prevent unsightly slag heaps. Only a small amount of fine tailings will be deposited outside, at places chosen by the recreation and conservation department.

Even the main wiring will be underground.

Mr. Campbell said the mine with produce its own hydro power from a lake 2,500 feet above the mill. A head of 2,100 feet will produce a possible 6,000 horsepower and the main cable to the plant will be buried underground.

Western Mines Ltd. will pay the full cost of an access road through Strathcona Park, a road now being surveyed by highways department crews along the scenic, sunny east side of Buttle Lake.

An agreement with the provincial government says the 24-foot road must be paved within five years.

Mr. Campbell said 200 tons of concentrate will be hauled over this road daily in standard ore trucks, meaning about eight trips a day. The road to the mine will be open to the public at all times as these trucks are not as "hazardous" as logging trucks.

The road will provide access to many campsites on the east side of the lake, around the south end to the mine.

Mr. Campbell said Myra Falls would be within easy access of this road and its beauty would remain unspoiled, because "miners are the most wilderness conscious of all members of society."

He said housing will be located so as not to detract from or destroy the lake's wilderness nature, as far as possible. The town is expected to house 100 single men and possibly the same number of couples.

A final note of conservation was that the road will meet the present road system near Strathcona Lodge and will be built back from the shores of the lake where possible.

Mr. Campbell said Western Mines has proven reserves for at least 3½ years and feels sure of six years. Other favorable showings mean a possibly long life for the mine over its three claims—Lynn, Paramount and Price.

He said the company activities will improve the economy of Campbell River with an expected annual payroll of $1,500,000 for 300 employees.

The Buttle Lake area was discovered and surveyed by John Buttle in 1865, the manager said.

Price Ellison saw in 1910 the area's great tourist potential and envisioned roads, steamboats and hotels.

The Strathcona Park Act of 1911 set the area aside as a park but mineral claims were allowed beginning in 1918. Prospector James Cross staked claims on Lynn, Paramount and Price and kept them in good standing until they were crown-granted in 1923.

Little work was done on the claims although 29 different companies examined — and rejected — the property before Western Mines became interested in 1961.

ENOUGH TO JUSTIFY

Now, said Mr. Campbell, four years of "luck and good engineering" has found enough ore to justify development.

The Chamber passed a motion supporting the Western Mines' project providing it is carried on under constant supervision by "the proper authorities," but declined to give support to general mining in B.C. parks.

Encore for Jazz Mass

A jazz mass including the music of the Danabusters' March will be presented at All Saints' Anglican Church in Shawnigan Lake at 11:15 a.m. Sunday.

The "choir" will consist of 20 teenagers from the district's two local schools and soloist will be the vicar, Rev. Eric Scott.

Mr. Scott's wife, Frances, will accompany the mass at the organ.

The jazz mass was written by East London vicar Geoffrey Beaumont in an effort to attract more young people to church.

This is the second presentation at the tiny Shawnigan Lake church. When presented last November between 70 and 80 people crammed into the church—double the normal congregation.

NANAIMO—A 19-year-old youth will appear in magistrate's court this morning on charges resulting from a wild and woolly car chase through Nanaimo's business section early Friday afternoon.

During the chase an unidentified woman was injured and taken to Nanaimo Regional General Hospital for treatment and was released later in the afternoon.

Police indicated the youth was to appear in court Friday on other charges, but failed to show up.

The chase after an old model car with no licence plates covered Wharf, Commercial and other streets. During its progress one police car was struck twice and several other cars and pedestrians were narrowly missed.

The car was finally halted at Terminal Avenue and Commercial Street when a police car blocked the intersection.

The driver started to run from his car but was tackled by police and handcuffed.

Staff Sgt. Frank Slater asked any persons who witnessed the chase to come forward and give a statement to the police.

Trial's Close Delayed

NANAIMO — Judge Arnold Hanna delayed closing arguments Friday in the county court trial of Barry Wayne Anderson, who pleaded innocent earlier this week to an indecent assault charge.

The judge ruled defence and prosecution lawyers will deliver their final summations Feb. 9.

Anderson was charged following an incident in Ladysmith last July 30 involving a mother of five children.

At the close of his case, Christopher Carmichael of Ladysmith is scheduled to face trial on a similar charge resulting from the same incident.

Courtenay Crisis

Kiltless Pipe Band Goes High for Help

By RUTH McKELLAR

COURTENAY—When the federal defence department disbanded the militia in Courtenay, the militia's affiliated pipe band was left not only homeless but also unclothed.

The Legion's Branch 17 here announced earlier it is anxious to sponsor the colorful, 12-member band to keep it active in this area.

But branch officials have found the kilted pipers are the Beau Brummels of bandmen and it costs more than $200 to outfit each man.

The branch executive therefore is seeking ways to rekit the pipers without too much expense as well as affiliating them to a unit still active in Victoria.

To these ends, the executive has asked Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell—the district MLA and a former Seaford man, to see what he can do to help.

Federal MP Tom Barnett also will be asked to beard the authorities in their dens when he returns to Ottawa.

The band, now unsponsored and kiltless, parades in the upper Legion Hall.

Police Ask Lake Cowichan

Did Anyone See Yogi Die?

By JEAN BAIN

LAKE COWICHAN — RCMP officers here have issued an appeal to every resident of this village for information on a shooting a week ago which aroused the anger of village citizens.

Five-year-old Yogi, a big, pure white samoyed-husky dog owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Martin of South Shore Road, was shot in the middle of the village Jan. 22 with what is believed to have been a bullet from a .22 rifle.

"GREATLY ASSISTED" The RCMP say they have been unable to find the bullet, which passed through the popular dog's stomach, and add the investigation would be "greatly assisted" if the bullet was found.

Otherwise, the police indicated, they will have to wait until someone comes forward with other evidence before the mystery can be solved.

The dog, which had survived several Arctic tests, was shot at Riverside Drive and Wellington Road, and found five blocks away—three blocks from the Martin home.

Police and others in Lake Cowichan stressed this week Yogi was a "friendly dog who never harmed anyone."

"He was a really nice dog," one police officer said. "In fact, one time there was a break-in near where the dog lived and he never even barked."

16-Year-Old Sent to Jail For Nanaimo Break-In

NANAIMO — A 16-year-old youth was sentenced in magistrate's court Friday to two years less a day at the Oakalla young offenders' unit for his part in a Sept. 29 break-in at Pacific Produce Co., 199 Fraser.

The youth was transferred to adult court from juvenile court, elected trial by magistrate and pleaded guilty.

TRANSFER PROPOSED

Magistrate Eric Finch, who declined use of the 16-year-old's name, recommended his transfer to the Haney Correctional Institute.

Police said the youth and an 18-year-old accomplice entered the building through the top portion of garage doors and wore gloves so no fingerprints would be left.

A Pacific Produce official said $221.54 was missing.

ON FOUR CHARGES

The boy was apprehended in Burnaby Oct. 28 and Dec. 4 was sentenced to two years less a day on four criminal charges. When questioned he admitted taking part in the Pacific Produce robbery.

His 18-year-old partner was given a year definite, six months indeterminate sentence for his part in the robbery last year.

The sentence handed down by Magistrate Finch will be concurrent with the boy's other sentence.

Death of Carpenter 'Probably Natural'

NANAIMO—The body of a 69-year-old carpenter was taken from a fishing boat Shangkri Friday afternoon at the city waterfront.

Coroner Russell Inkster said Charles Althouse had probably been dead two or three days. The body was discovered in the cabin of the fishing vessel by the owner, whose name was not released.

The coroner ordered an inquiry and said death was probably from natural causes.

Three Incidents

Chemainus Vandalism Investigated by Police

CHEMAINUS—Police are investigating three cases of vandalism in the past few days, involving damage at the Scout Hall, the smashing of a store window and the latest, Wednesday night, the breaking of a car window on the Chemainus road.

RCMP Cpl. Frank Johnson said every case of vandalism is carefully investigated as soon as the report comes in but in many cases the investigation is very difficult.

Following Wednesday night's vandalism, spokesmen from the Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce complained about lack of police protection. Several months ago the North Cowichan council approved of an automatic telephone switch which would channel all calls to the Duncan RCMP station when the Chemainus station is not occupied but so far the installation has not been carried out.

The 25-square-mile area at Chemainus and Crofton with some 3,200 people and 80 miles of road is being patrolled by Cpl. Johnson and three constables.

A GREAT MAN'S LAST JOURNEY INTO HISTORY

Sombre de Gaulle

*Gun salutes, muffled cadences,
Prayers of commoners and kings*

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill made his last journey today in a biting wind to the steady boom of gun salutes, the muffled cadences of thousands of marchers and the prayers of his Queen, his countrymen and distinguished statesmen of the world.

Shortly before 10 a.m. the body of the greatest British statesman of the century was lifted gently from the catafalque in Westminster's "Hall of Kings" where it lay in state three days, and was borne in solemn procession to St. Paul's Cathedral.

Queen Elizabeth herself, surrounded by her family, was the chief mourner of the nation as the sad memorial service unfolded in tribute to the indomitable man who led his country to glorious victory in the Second World War. (See also Page 5.)

Never before had a British sovereign paid such tribute to a commoner among her people.

Never before, Britain clearly felt, had it owed so much to one man.

Sir Winston, who died Sunday at the age of 90, could have been entombed among the immortals at Westminster Abbey.

He chose instead a simple country grave beside his parents far from the scenes of his glory.

NEAR BIRTHPLACE

It was to this grave in the Oxfordshire village of Bladon, close to his birthplace, that the statesman's body was to be taken by launch, train and hearse from St. Paul's.

At Bladon, a simple Church of England funeral service was to commit him to the ground.

CLAD IN BLACK

The young Queen, clad in black and wearing pearls, the Jewel of Tears, joined in prayer in St. Paul's with Sir Winston's grieving family, his most distinguished colleagues, and 3,000 dignitaries from 111 nations assembled to do the great man honor.

Among them were four kings, one other queen, a sultan, five other heads of state and 16 prime ministers.

LONDON (UPI) — They came carrying tea and whisky, camp chairs and umbrellas, books and string bags crammed with sandwiches.

One by one, as the cold east wind swept down from behind floodlighted St. Paul's Cathedral, they settled down in doorways or on curbstones, waiting to pay 10 seconds of homage.

By 3 a.m., more than 3,000 persons had taken squatters' rights to the curbs around St. Paul's and were spreading down Ludgate Hill. They faced more than seven hours of waiting before the gun carriage bearing the body of Sir Winston Churchill would rumble past.

8,000 POLICEMEN

By the time the procession passed, officials estimated at least 1,000,000 persons packed the route. Scotland Yard detailed 8,000 policemen to control the crowd.

Most of the waiting mourners were young—too young to remember the Second World War and Churchill's great years of leadership. Why, then, had they come?

"Sir Winston was a great man," Elizabeth Whitehead, 20, said, "and I probably owe it to him that I'm alive."

That theme returned again and again. They were repaying

Diplomacy Amid Grief

LONDON (UPI) — Summit meetings began Friday as world leaders assembled for the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

French President Charles

de Gaulle, who arrived Friday, launched high-level diplomatic talks.

Under heavy security, De Gaulle went directly to Westminster Hall to view the catafalque bearing the body of his old wartime comrade, then proceeded to Buckingham Palace where he was received by Queen Elizabeth. He met with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson later and sources said a meeting of the two in Paris in the next few weeks has been arranged.

It was the first face-to-face encounter of French and British leaders since De Gaulle barred Britain from the European Common Market two years ago to the day.

The meeting was surrounded by protocol considerations.

No. 10 Downing Street said De Gaulle invited Wilson to the residence of the French ambassador.

Paris sources said the meeting was suggested by Wilson.

De Gaulle, as head of state, was precluded by diplomatic protocol from calling on the prime minister at Downing Street.

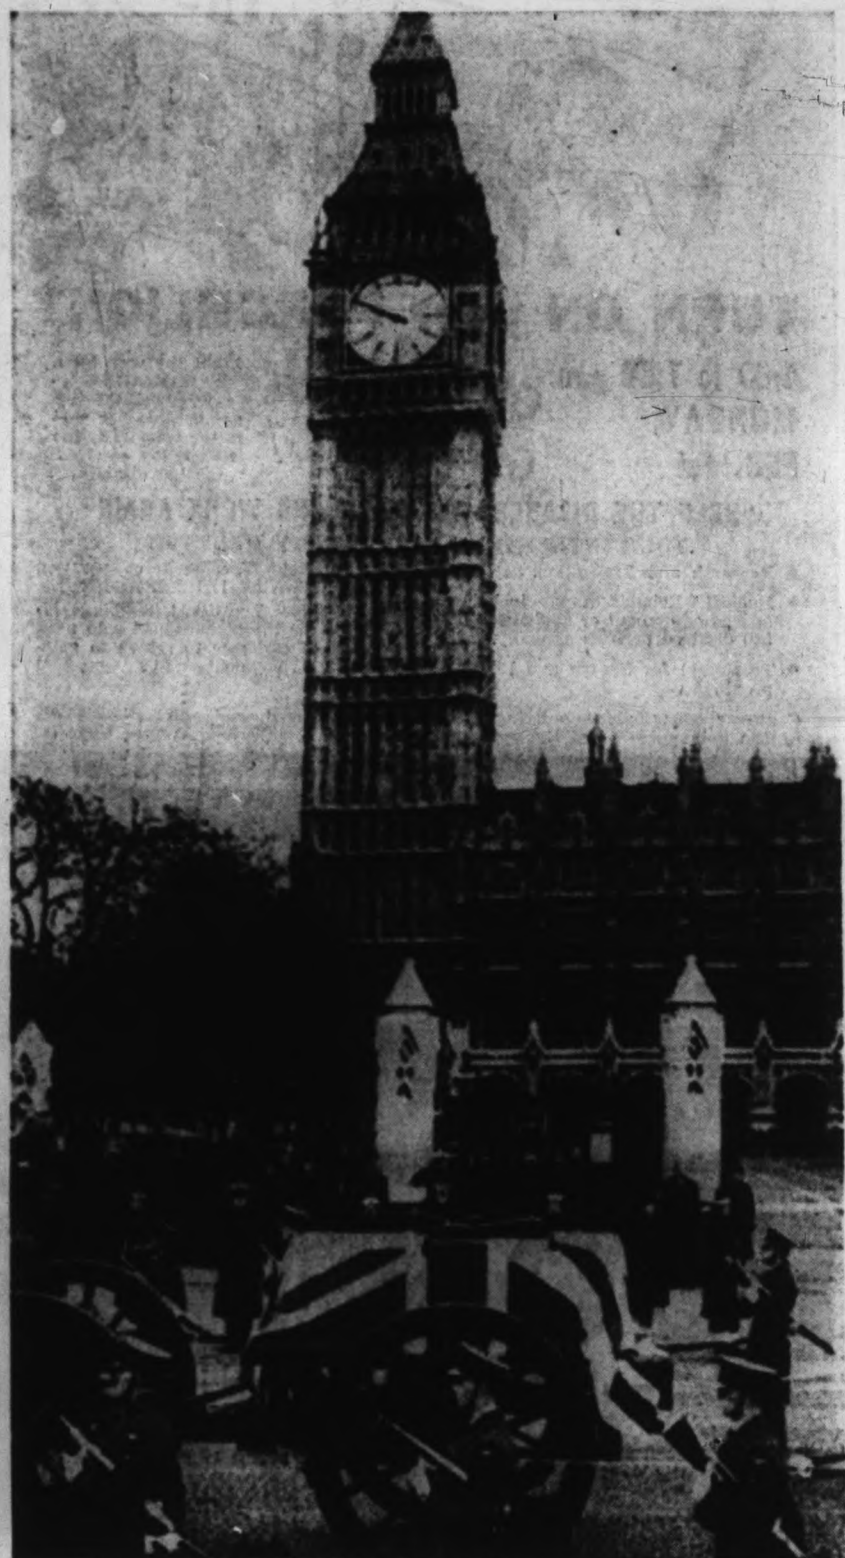

Wilson scheduled a meeting with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard to be followed by a meeting with State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Rusk Unable To Attend

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. embassy said today State Secretary Dean Rusk did not attend the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill, on doctor's orders. Rusk had a cold and was running a temperature. He was expected to return to Washington later today.

Canada, U.S. Just 'Realistic'

No Wheat Price War But Slashes Go Right On

From CP, AP, UPI

There's no wheat price war between Canada and United States—at least both say there isn't.

But meanwhile both continued to slash the price—to meet reductions by the other.

A trade source in Ottawa, while denying Canada has entered an actual price war with the United States, said international price-cutting, a record world wheat crop and increasing competition forced Canada to adopt a more realistic price level.

And in Washington it was announced the United States cut its export price of hard spring wheat another 13 cents Friday to meet a reduction by Canada. In Winnipeg, the Canadian wheat board slashed the bulk of its export wheat prices Friday in what was said might be the last of a sudden series of reductions.

The U.S. cut made a total reduction of 18 cents in hard spring wheat since Monday, when price cutting began to sweep through world markets reflecting a desire to unload heavy supplies.

A highly placed official of the Crown marketing agency in Winnipeg said as far as can be pre-

Little Green Men Safe in Virginia

STAUNTON, Va. (AP)—Sheriff John E. Kent of Augusta County says he will crack down on flying saucer believers who go out with guns to hunt "little green men." Says Kent: "If there really are creatures around from outer space, who's got a right to mow them down?"

Quang

Buddhists Warn Off U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang was reported to have told U.S. political officers Friday he wants Washington to keep hands off future Buddhist political campaigns in South Viet Nam.

Quang's eight-day hunger strike, with four other Saigon monks, built up pressure that led to the military ouster Wednesday of Tran Van Huong, the American-backed premier.

American officials said they feel that, since the Buddhists now have had a major role in bringing down three governments, they are likely to try for more.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor called on Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh for their first conference since the South Vietnamese strongman threw out Huong and seized power again.

Khanh also had a talk with political leaders of central South Viet Nam, a stronghold of Buddhist power marked by continuing anti-American agitation.

His new acting premier, Harvard-educated Nguyen Xuan Oanh, ordered release of all persons arrested during the last week of demonstrations and riots except those suspected of being Communist Viet Cong agents.

Saigon authorities, heeding this order, released 79 Buddhist monks, 85 nuns, 132 students and 153 other persons.

But a Buddhist spokesman in

Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, said his group is still not satisfied. He said it demands the expulsion of Taylor, punishment of Huong for alleged activity against Buddhism and installation of Brig. - Gen. Nguyen Khanh Thi as premier.

The military commander in the Hue area, Thi never used his troops against rioters such as the mob which sacked the U.S. Information Service Library in that city and burned hundreds of its books.

Toast His Memory In the Local Pubs

BY HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, viewing the crowds at ancient Westminster Hall, said the mourners at Sir Winston Churchill's bier showed a quiet, very deep reverence, so unlike "the violent, intense, shattering grief" displayed at President Kennedy's funeral in Washington more than a year ago.

Pearson told reporters Friday that when he attended the Kennedy funeral he could sense an emotional outburst, almost of anger, that the youthful president had been cut down even before he had a chance to do his work.

But in Churchill's case, there was a feeling here and in Canada of intense sorrow, but more a sense of satisfaction that Churchill had been allowed by destiny to complete his task, and Britons could toast his memory in the local pubs.

After paying his homage at the catafalque, Pearson joined former U.S. president Dwight Eisenhower and other high dignitaries at a reception given by Earl Alexander, former governor-general of Canada. George Drew, former Canadian high commissioner to Britain, was a guest.

Lord Alexander will announce details Monday of a Commonwealth plan to raise funds from the public and governments to establish a Commonwealth scholarship fund in Churchill's honor.

Following attendance at the St. Paul's Cathedral funeral service for Sir Winston today, Pearson will be a guest of the Queen at a Buckingham Palace luncheon for heads of state.

After the funeral, he will confer with Prime Minister Wilson. Pearson said he did not know what issues Wilson intends to raise, but the Canada-U.S. agreement on duty-free automobile trade at the manufacturers' level may come up, since Britain has been worried about the impact of this agreement on Britain's vital automobile exports.
